Truce Halts New York Newspaper Strike

Compromise Plan Accepted By Both Sides

Fact-Finding Board Will Give Decision On Wages, Benefits

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—A government-conceived fact-finding pact today brought an armistice in New York's big newspaper strike, the worst in the city's history.

Presses were ready to roll and morning editions of some strike-bound dailies were due to hit the streets tonight.

Publishers of the city's six biggest papers accepted a compromise worked out by one of the government's crack mediators, Walter A. Maggiolo. It is expected to increase publishers' costs at least 3¾ million dollars a year in New York.

Pickets Withdrawn

The 400 striking photo-engravers voted to go along and withdrew pickets from the struck newspapers for the first time since the strike began Nov. 28.

The engravers agreed 198-77 to go back to work, but not until they were assured they can strike again if the fact-finders' decision on wages and other benefits does not suit them. The decision may be ready next week.

The strikers, abetted by 20,000 non-striking newspaper employes who honored their picket lines, have kept New York's biggest dailies closed more than 10 days and disrupted reading and advertising habits of millions of New Yorkers.

"Relief" To Publishers

"It comes as a great source of relief for us," said William Mapel, spokesman for the publishers. "This has been a bad situation and in a situation of this type nobody is all right and nobody is all wrong. I hope we never have it again."

The engravers get $3 a week wage increase, plus 75 cents worth of other benefits—the same package which the publishers stood on all along. However, a three-man fact finding board can recommend additional amounts, although its decision is not binding on either side.

Strike leaders said the formula is expected to set a pattern for the 20,000 other union employes of the city's newspapers — printing crafts, machinists and business and editorial employes.

Knowland Sees Communism Top Election Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland of California today agreed with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that communism in government will be an important issue in next year's congression elections.

Without contesting President Eisenhower's views on the subject, Knowland told newsmen:

"It will be an issue with the American public because they do not want any successor administration that would have the same naive approach as the Truman administration."

The White House meanwhile reported a five-day total of 25,033 telegrams—and approximately the same number of letters—dealing with McCarthy's appeal to the public to "write or wire" Eisenhower urging the President to cut off all U. S. dollar aid to nations trading with Red China. McCarthy called it "blood trade."

After McCarthy made the appeal last Thursday, others, among them Rep. Frelinghuisen (R-NJ), urged that those opposing McCarthy's views also write or telegraph the White House.

The latest figures, timed at 4 p.m., marked an increase of 5,516 telegrams on the subject received at the White House in the last 24 hours.

There was no breakdown, either on letters or telegrams, splitting them into pro-McCarthy or pro-Eisenhower categories. The telegrams had been reported running 2-1 in favor of McCarthy in an early check last Saturday.

Tears In Churchill's Eyes As He Bids Goodby To Ike

Ready For Parley, Big 3 Tells USSR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Big Three powers officially notified Russia today they are ready to take part in a foreign ministers conference in Berlin Jan. 4. They expressed hope that the meeting would lead to reunification of Germany and independence for Austria.

In practically identical notes sent to the Kremlin, the United States, Britain and France proposed that the Big Four conference be held in the building formerly used by the Allied Control Council. This is in the American sector of Berlin.

The form of the Big Three communication was worked out at the Bermuda meeting of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel, which broke up early today.

Soviet Offer Accepted

In accepting the Soviet offer to confer at the foreign ministers level—made in a surprise note from Moscow Nov. 26 —the Big Three emphasized their interest in a speedy solution of the German and Austrian problems.

"The United States government is confident that real progress toward the settlement of the German and Austrian questions, which are especially urgent, will contribute to the solution of other major international problems, including that of European security," the American note said. It was made public here tonight.

The Western replies left the way open for Russia to press its demand that Communist China be allowed to join a five-power conference in the near future. But the Big Three gave no sign they would agree to any such meeting.

Russia Can "State Views"

"The Soviet government has stated its desire to discuss the possibility of a Five-Power conference," said the notes. "The forthcoming meeting of the four foreign ministers will enable any participating government to state its views on this question."

The terse Western notes were in reply to a 2,000-word message from Premier Malenkov's government. This Soviet note specifically proposed the meeting in Berlin "in the near future" for "the purpose of reducing tensions in international relations."

FUGITIVE ESCAPES—Thomas Everett Harper, alias Dickerson,, is at large again after he was arrested and imprisoned for four hours in Sandy Hook, Ky. Harper, wanted for questioning by the FBI in the slaying of a finance company messenger, broke out of jail with three other men and is "probably armed." He recently escaped from a Maryland mental hospital.

Unity Stressed In Communique

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, Dec. 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, aging architect of the Bermuda Big Three conference, wept as he said farewell today to President Eisenhower.

The wartime and peacetime colleagues shook hands at the U. S.-leased Kindley Field after the windup of talks with French Premier Laniel which had as their biggest apparent result the dispatch of a note to Russia suggesting that the Berlin foreign ministers' parley open Jan. 4.

Then President Eisenhower took off in his plane Columbine with Secretary of State Dulles for New York to appeal before the United Nations General Assembly for peace in an atom-periled world.

Tears filled Churchill's eyes at the parting. The British leader looked weary and leaned on a cane as he shook hands and said goodby.

Laniel, Bidault Absent

Premier Laniel and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault were conspicuously absent from the farewell ceremony. Conference officials said the Frenchmen had taken leave of the President before he left the Mid-Ocean Club, the conference headquarters.

Laniel, ill with a lung infection, was reported planning to head back to Paris Friday. Bidault represented him at the final conference session, a 13-hour gathering that ended at 1:15 a.m.

Churchill, the host, expects to leave for London late tomorrow.

A communique issued by the Big Three called on the Russians to help solve "the stubborn problems which have too long been unsettled." They expressed hope for progress in Berlin on the unification of Germany and indepedence for Austria. Their note to Moscow on that subject was delivered to the Kremlin today.

Unity Note Sounded

The communique sounded a high note of Western unity. It said the United States, Britain and France:

Will continue to strive for a Korean political conference which they hope will lead to both a Korean settlement with the Asian Communists and "progress in restoring more normal conditions in the Far East and southeast Asia."

Will continue to struggle for peace and stability in Indochina, where the forces of France and the Associated States were described as making an important contribution to the "defense of the free world."

Hope for a peaceful liberation of Communist-ruled East European countries.

Reject as unjustified the present division of Europe.

Reaffirm that the European Defense Community "is needed to assure the defensive capacity of the (North) Atlantic community, of which it will be an integral part."

President Backs Reports U. S. Has Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave official support today to reports the United States now has actual hydrogen "weapons" instead of only test "devices."

And he also let the world know that even the conventional nuclear fission A-bomb now has grown in power to a point where it can produce energy equal to that released by a half million tons of TNT—compared with the 20,000 tons of the world's first atomic bomb.

The power in the atomic weapons stockpiled by the United States equals that of all the bombs and shells used in World War II, he declared.

45 U. S. Atom Explosions

In his address before the United Nations Assembly at New York, the President also gave an up-to-date official accounting of the number of atomic explosions produced by the United States. His reckoning of test explosions, taken together with two combat bombs used on Japanese cities, shows the current total at 45.

Eisenhower appeared definite in his mention of hydrogen "weapons." Until only a few weeks ago Atomic Energy Commission officials had referred, in discussing an explosion at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific last fall, to a test involving a thermonuclear "device."

Stockpile's Size Not Revealed

There have been unofficial estimates that a hydrogen bomb, dropped and exploded over a large city, could produce complete devastation over a 100-square mile area (which, as an example, happens to be the size of the District of Columbia) and that at "ground zero" directly under the bomb the explosion would produce a crater 300 feet deep and three miles across.

Eisenhower did not, of course, reveal the size of either the American or Russian atomic bomb stockpile, saying only that America's "increases daily."

Hallinan Given Jail Term, Fined

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8 (AP)—Vincent Hallinan, 57, Independent Progressive party candidate for president in 1952, today was sentenced to prison, and in a bitter denunciation of the courts, announced he would quit law practice to devote himself to politics.

The wealthy attorney was sentenced to 18 months and fined $50,000 for evading $36,739 in federal income taxes.

Hallinan, former attorney for longshore labor leader Harry Bridges, told newsmen:

"I'm very surprised at the severity of the sentence. I thought it was very harsh.

"Courts are no longer a place for justice, but a place where injustice is validated and sanctified.

"I'm sorry I've spent my life in the courts."

He remarked, however, that he thought federal District Judge Edward P. Murphy "had been fair" in his conduct of the trial.

Today's Chuckle

A businessman called in his secretary. "Take a letter," he said, "to Jones, Smith, Brown and Johnson,

"Gentlemen:—"

"I beg your pardon," said the secretary, "but I must differ with you. I've been out with all four of them."

High School Track Coach Is Stabbed . Fatally By Student

ALEDO, Ill., Dec. 8 (AP)—George Marich, 29, Aledo high school track coach, was stabbed fatally today in a corridor of the high school during an altercation with three students.

Sheriff William Albertson said he was holding three youths for questioning. He said they were James Gipson, 17; his brother, Charles, 19; and John Lee Hollis, 17, all of nearby Seaton.

The sheriff said witnesses gave this account:

Marich, in charge of the study hall during the period just before lunch time, took the three youths out of class after a disturbance of some sort. He started to lead them to the superintendent's office, across the hall, for discipline.

The sheriff quoted Hollis as saying to Marich, "Don't lay a hand on me." Marich then slapped him, Hollis told the sheriff.

"That's the last I remember," Hollis was quoted as saying.

Marich was stabbed just below the heart. He died about 15 minutes later.

Porcupine Official 'Enemy' Of Nation's Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The porcupine is an officially-recognized "enemy" of the nation's armed forces.

Dr. Ray Trehicler of the Army Chemical Center, Maryland, said so today in describing the Defense Department's continuing war on insects, rodents and other creatures detrimental to personnel or equipment.

"The principal enemies we have to defeat," he told the annual meeting of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Assn., "are flies, lice, bedbugs, ants, roaches, mites, ticks, leeches, bats, mice, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, rabbits—and even porcupines, who far outclass the much-slandered goat in the range of items which they consider good to eat."

He said gains have been made in the war against various pests—especially since World War II. But he added that neither the Army nor civilians can relax in the never-ending struggle.

"While the human race has managed to keep one jump ahead of the menace, and has avoided extermination thus far, there have been some close calls," he said.

"It is generally understood that if mankind should relax all pest defensive measures, in a relatively short time the human race would find it most difficult it not impossible to maintain itself on this earth."

Eisenhower Asks Atomic Agency

President Eisenhower addresses the U. N. General Assembly and proposes that Russia and other atomic powers immediately create an international agency to develop peaceful uses of the atom. Sitting behind the President are (left to right) Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the U. N.; Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, president of the U. N. General Assembly, and Andrew Cordier, assistant secretary-general.

Administration Calls For Segregation Ban

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration called upon the Supreme Court today to outlaw racial segregation in America's public schools.

It went straight down the line with the Truman administration in declaring that separate schools for Negro children, even if they are equal to those for white pupils, are illegal under the Constitution.

But Virginia's attorney general, J. Lindsay Almond, told the high tribunal that it was being asked to make "a decision contrary to the spirit and intent and purpose of the 14th Amendment."

The amendment provides that no state shall deprive any citizen of due process of law or deny him equal protection under the laws.

Opposing Lawyers Hit

The white-haired attorney general thundered that opposing lawyers were asking the court to amend the Constitution.

"They are asking you . . . to go farther than the Congress ever intended this court should go," he cried.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Lee Rankin had told the nine black-robed justices they have "the power and the duty" to rule that segregation violates the 14th Amendment.

"It is the position of the Department of Justice," Rankin declared, "that segregation in the public schools cannot be maintained under the 14th Amendment."

Rankin took this stand under a barrage of questions from the justices. And the Justice Department said Rankin was speaking for the Eisenhower administration.

Second Day Of Debate

The assistant attorney general went to bat against segregation midway in three days of momentous debate on the issue in the marble-columned Supreme Court chamber.

The momentous question before the court is whether to junk an 1896 decision that segregation is valid if equal facilities are provided for Negroes and whites, and to rule now that segregation under any conditions is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for Negro parents are demanding that the Supreme Court strike down segregation as such. Lawyers for four states and the District of Columbia contend that the court has no power or legal basis to take such a position.

Two Hunters Trapped On Rail Trestle, Killed

MALVERN, Iowa, Dec. 8 (AP)—Two of four Council Bluffs, Iowa youths, out on a rabbit hunting trip, were killed today when they were trapped on a trestle in the path of a Burlington Railroad passenger train.

Don Reese and Irvin Lee Jr., both 16, were killed. Their companions, Robert Rhoades, 17 and Don Torrez, 18, jumped and landed safely on the banks of Silver Creek under the trestle.

Arthur Murray Robbed

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Four robbers invaded the Park Ave. apartment of dance instructor Arthur Murray tonight and held him and his wife at gunpoint while they looted the place.

Police reported the robbers took jewelry valued at $25,000 and $500 in cash.

Boy Waits Nine Hours, Receives Ike's Autograph

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The pride of Brooklyn tonight is wide-eyed Johnnie Pitta, 10, who waited from 8 o'clock this morning until after 5 p.m. to ask the President of the United States for his autograph. He got it.

Johnnie had been mistakenly informed that President Eisenhower would address the U.N. General Assembly at 10:30 a.m. He got there early.

Luckily Johnnie had a sandwich with him. He strolled around the U.N. building and did some sightseeing.

The President came as scheduled just before 4 p.m. and left an hour and a half later.

When Eisenhower came out, Johnnie jerked off his coonskin cap and cried out: "President, can I have your autograph."

Eisenhower turned back and said: "Yes, I'll give you my autograph."

Mamie Won't Attend Dinner Due To Cold

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—A stubborn chest cold will prevent Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower from attending the brilliant diplomatic dinner which she and the President are giving tomorrow night.

Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the secretary of state, will substitute for her as official hostess at the dinner, the first of two at the White House in honor of top-ranking diplomats stationed here.

Dean Says Next Move In Korean Talks Up To Reds

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Dec. 9 (AP)—Negotiations for a Korean peace conference neared a breakdown today after the Communists angrily rejected the U.N. Command's "final offer" without even reading it.

"It is very obvious that they (the Communists) have stopped negotiating," U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean told newsmen after the long and futile session yesterday.

Nevertheless, the U. S. and Communist diplomats meet again today at 11 a.m. This is 9 p.m. EST Tuesday.

Next Move Up To Reds

Dean said it would be clearly up to the Reds to make the next move—accept his proposal or face a breakoff of the preliminary discussions, which now are more than six weeks old.

Dean also faced trouble on his own side, with South Korea boycotting the negotiations and refusing to go along with Dean's "final offer." The envoy appeared confident this disagreement could be ironed out, saying it was only "a difference of opinion."

In brief, Dean proposed calling a peace conference at Geneva within 24 to 48 days after the current talks end. Besides the belligerents, Russia and a number of non-belligerents who have "current" experience in Korea would be seated.

Insists Russia Must Vote

All but Russia would be seated as non-voting neutrals. Dean did not name them, but the neutrals probably would be such countries as India, Pakistan, Sweden, Switzerland, Chile, Poland, and Czechoslovakia.

Dean was firm in rejecting the Communist demand that Russia be seated as a "neutral." He said Russia would be seated neither as a belligerent nor a neutral but must vote. The Allies want Russia to have a vote so it will be bound by conference decisions.

Peace Project Called Answer To Arms Race

President Suggests Immediate Private Talks, 4-Point Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower today proposed that all the atomic powers — Russia included — pool at least part of their atomic resources for peaceful purposes.

With a warning that the nuclear arms race threatens to wipe out civilization, the President urged that nations with atomic know-how contribute nuclear materials to an international agency to be set up under U.N. sponsorship.

"My country's purpose is to help us move out of this dark chamber of horrors into the light," the President solemnly told the United Nations General Assembly.

He suggested that the atomic powers begin private talks immediately on such a project without waiting for the establishment of a system of inspection — one of the stumbling blocks in previous atomic discussions.

Flies From Bermuda

Eisenhower flew here from the Big Three conference in Bermuda, where he won British and French approval of his idea, to unfold it in the brightest spotlight of world publicity. All American television and radio networks carried the speech, which aides described as the most important Eisenhower has made since taking office. It was broadcast by the Voice of America in a multitude of languages, including Russian.

Dignitaries of 60 nations, gathered in the Assembly hall, gave the President an ovation when he finished his 29-minute speech. Even chief Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky joined in, although with no especial show of heartiness. Vishinsky later told reporters "it is necessary to study" the President's proposals before commenting on them.

Warns Of Atomic Terror

The President first solemnly warned of the hideous terror to which the world is exposed because of the development of atomic power. He reported for the first time publicly that atomic bombs nowadays are 25 times as powerful as those which wiped out Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Moreover, the President said in measured tones, the United States has reached such a stage in atomic development that these weapons "have virtually achieved conventional status within our armed services."

But, Eisenhower emphasized, "the dread secret and the fearful engines of atomic might are not ours alone."

"In the first place, the secret is possessed by our friends and allies, Great Britain and Canada, whose scientific genius made a tremendous contribution to our original discoveries and the designs of atomic bombs."

After paying this tribute to the English-speaking Allies, who have been pressuring the United States for a mutual exchange of atomic information, Eisenhower went on in slow and solemn measures to proclaim:

"The secret is also known by the Soviet Union."

Numbers No Preventive

The United States, he said, had a head-start and now holds a "great quantitative advantage" over the Soviet Union. Nevertheless, he declared, the facts of modern atomic life are these:

Some Legislators See Congress Balking At Ike's Plan For World Atomic Agency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Congressional reaction to President Eisenhower's speech today ranged from applause for his statesmanship to predictions that Congress might balk at authorizing an international atomic setup.

Several legislators noted that Soviet Russia has already rejected American proposals for international control of atomic production.

Former President Herbert Hoover commented:

"President Eisenhower has made a proposal of great nobility. I pray it may be accepted by all the world."

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said in a statement:

"The President has spoken for the conscience of all men of good will.

"When the President's plan is submitted to the Congress, I hope it will receive prompt and favorable consideration."

But Rep. Durham (D-SC), also a member of the joint atomic committee, told newsmen he thought it would be "a long time before Congress will take the responsibility" of changing the atomic energy act to authorize an international atomic agency under the United Nations, as proposed by Eisenhower.

"It will not be easy to convince Congress that it is not some form of a foreign give-away program," Durham said.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), who has sharply criticized some phases of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, lauded the President's proposal for a U.N. atomic control agency.

"If the Russians would consent, it would certainly be a step forward," McCarthy said.

"Even if they don't, I think the suggestion is good because it would point up the fact that we are willing to have inspection and control—and Russia is not."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Many world diplomats hailed President Eisenhower's call today for universal cooperation in the peaceful use of atomic energy as an historic new approach that could open a way for easing of fears of all peoples.

The Soviet bloc delegates to the U.N. General Assembly, who heard the President call on the Russians, particularly, to pool their nuclear raw materials, said they would have to study the proposals before they could comment.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky was busy taking notes while he listened to the President's speech. He would not comment afterwards.

But throughout the rest of the 60-nation world forum — among pro-Western nations and neutral Asian and Arab countries alike—the general reaction was one of hearty approval of the principles in the Eisenhower address.

President Backs Reports U. S. Has Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave official support today to reports the United States now has actual hydrogen "weapons" instead of only test "devices."

And he also let the world know that even the conventional nuclear fission A-bomb now has grown in power to a point where it can produce energy equal to that released by a half million tons of TNT—compared with the 20,000 tons of the world's first atomic bomb.

The power in the atomic weapons stockpiled by the United States equals that of all the bombs and shells used in World War II, he declared.

45 U. S. Atom Explosions

In his address before the United Nations Assembly at New York, the President also gave an up-to-date official accounting of the number of atomic explosions produced by the United States. His reckoning of test explosions, taken together with two combat bombs used on Japanese cities, shows the current total at 45.

Eisenhower appeared definite in his mention of hydrogen "weapons." Until only a few weeks ago Atomic Energy Commission officials had referred, in discussing an explosion at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific last fall, to a test involving a thermonuclear "device."

Stockpile's Size Not Revealed

There have been unofficial estimates that a hydrogen bomb, dropped and exploded over a large city, could produce complete devastation over a 100-square mile area (which, as an example, happens to be the size of the District of Columbia) and that at "ground zero" directly under the bomb the explosion would produce a crater 300 feet deep and three miles across.

Eisenhower did not, of course, reveal the size of either the American or Russian atomic bomb stockpile, saying only that America's "increases daily."

Administration Calls For Segregation Ban

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration called upon the Supreme Court today to outlaw racial segregation in America's public schools.

It went straight down the line with the Truman administration in declaring that separate schools for Negro children, even if they are equal to those for white pupils, are illegal under the Constitution.

But Virginia's attorney general, J. Lindsay Almond, told the high tribunal that it was being asked to make "a decision contrary to the spirit and intent and purpose of the 14th Amendment."

The amendment provides that no state shall deprive any citizen of due process of law or deny him equal protection under the laws.

Opposing Lawyers Hit

The white-haired attorney general thundered that opposing lawyers were asking the court to amend the Constitution.

"They are asking you . . . to go farther than the Congress ever intended this court should go," he cried.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Lee Rankin had told the nine black-robed justices they have "the power and the duty" to rule that segregation violates the 14th Amendment.

"It is the position of the Department of Justice," Rankin declared, "that segregation in the public schools cannot be maintained under the 14th Amendment."

Rankin took this stand under a barrage of questions from the justices. And the Justice Department said Rankin was speaking for the Eisenhower administration.

Second Day Of Debate

The assistant attorney general went to bat against segregation midway in three days of momentous debate on the issue in the marble-columned Supreme Court chamber.

The momentous question before the court is whether to junk an 1896 decision that segregation is valid if equal facilities are provided for Negroes and whites, and to rule now that segregation under any conditions is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for Negro parents are demanding that the Supreme Court strike down segregation as such. Lawyers for four states and the District of Columbia contend that the court has no power or legal basis to take such a position.

Dean Says Next Move In Korean Talks Up To Reds

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Dec. 9 (AP)—Negotiations for a Korean peace conference neared a breakdown today after the Communists angrily rejected the U.N. Command's "final offer" without even reading it.

"It is very obvious that they (the Communists) have stopped negotiating," U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean told newsmen after the long and futile session yesterday.

Nevertheless, the U. S. and Communist diplomats meet again today at 11 a.m. This is 9 p.m. EST Tuesday.

Next Move Up To Reds

Dean said it would be clearly up to the Reds to make the next move—accept his proposal or face a breakoff of the preliminary discussions, which now are more than six weeks old.

Dean also faced trouble on his own side, with South Korea boycotting the negotiations and refusing to go along with Dean's "final offer." The envoy appeared confident this disagreement could be ironed out, saying it was only "a difference of opinion."

In brief, Dean proposed calling a peace conference at Geneva within 24 to 48 days after the current talks end. Besides the belligerents, Russia and a number of non-belligerents who have "current" experience in Korea would be seated.

Insists Russia Must Vote

All but Russia would be seated as non-voting neutrals. Dean did not name them, but the neutrals probably would be such countries as India, Pakistan, Sweden, Switzerland, Chile, Poland, and Czechoslovakia.

Dean was firm in rejecting the Communist demand that Russia be seated as a "neutral." He said Russia would be seated neither as a belligerent nor a neutral but must vote. The Allies want Russia to have a vote so it will be bound by conference decisions.

Boy Waits Nine Hours, Receives Ike's Autograph

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The pride of Brooklyn tonight is wide-eyed Johnnie Pitta, 10, who waited from 8 o'clock this morning until after 5 p.m. to ask the President of the United States for his autograph. He got it.

Johnnie had been mistakenly informed that President Eisenhower would address the U.N. General Assembly at 10:30 a.m. He got there early.

Luckily Johnnie had a sandwich with him. He strolled around the U.N. building and did some sightseeing.

The President came as scheduled just before 4 p.m. and left an hour and a half later.

When Eisenhower came out, Johnnie jerked off his coonskin cap and cried out: "President, can I have your autograph."

Eisenhower turned back and said: "Yes, I'll give you my autograph."

Mamie Won't Attend Dinner Due To Cold

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—A stubborn chest cold will prevent Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower from attending the brilliant diplomatic dinner which she and the President are giving tomorrow night.

Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the secretary of state, will substitute for her as official hostess at the dinner, the first of two at the White House in honor of top-ranking diplomats stationed here.

Knowland Sees Communism Top Election Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland of California today agreed with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that communism in government will be an important issue in next year's congression elections.

Without contesting President Eisenhower's views on the subject, Knowland told newsmen:

"It will be an issue with the American public because they do not want any successor administration that would have the same naive approach as the Truman administration."

The White House meanwhile reported a five-day total of 25,033 telegrams—and approximately the same number of letters—dealing with McCarthy's appeal to the public to "write or wire" Eisenhower urging the President to cut off all U. S. dollar aid to nations trading with Red China. McCarthy called it "blood trade."

After McCarthy made the appeal last Thursday, others, among them Rep. Frelinghuisen (R-NJ), urged that those opposing McCarthy's views also write or telegraph the White House.

The latest figures, timed at 4 p.m., marked an increase of 5,516 telegrams on the subject received at the White House in the last 24 hours.

There was no breakdown, either on letters or telegrams, splitting them into pro-McCarthy or pro-Eisenhower categories. The telegrams had been reported running 2-1 in favor of McCarthy in an early check last Saturday.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 8 (AP)—A four-member goodwill delegation arrived by air today from Communist China.

High School Track Coach Is Stabbed Fatally By Student

ALEDO, Ill., Dec. 8 (AP)—George Marich, 29, Aledo high school track coach, was stabbed fatally today in a corridor of the high school during an altercation with three students.

Sheriff William Albertson said he was holding three youths for questioning. He said they were James Gipson, 17; his brother, Charles, 19; and John Lee Hollis, 17, all of nearby Seaton.

The sheriff said witnesses gave this account:

Marich, in charge of the study hall during the period just before lunch time, took the three youths out of class after a disturbance of some sort. He started to lead them to the superintendent's office, across the hall, for discipline.

The sheriff quoted Hollis as saying to Marich, "Don't lay a hand on me." Marich then slapped him, Hollis told the sheriff.

"That's the last I remember," Hollis was quoted as saying.

Marich was stabbed just below the heart. He died about 15 minutes later.

Porcupine Official 'Enemy' Of Nation's Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The porcupine is an officially-recognized "enemy" of the nation's armed forces.

Dr. Ray Trehicler of the Army Chemical Center, Maryland, said so today in describing the Defense Department's continuing war on insects, rodents and other creatures detrimental to personnel or equipment.

"The principal enemies we have to defeat," he told the annual meeting of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Assn., "are flies, lice, bedbugs, ants, roaches, mites, ticks, leeches, bats, mice, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, rabbits—and even porcupines, who far outclass the much-slandered goat in the range of items which they consider good to eat."

He said gains have been made in the war against various pests—especially since World War II. But he added that neither the Army nor civilians can relax in the never-ending struggle.

"While the human race has managed to keep one jump ahead of the menace, and has avoided extermination thus far, there have been some close calls," he said.

"It is generally understood that if mankind should relax all pest defensive measures, in a relatively short time the human race would find it most difficult it not impossible to maintain itself on this earth."

Hallinan Given Jail Term, Fined

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8 (AP)—Vincent Hallinan, 57, Independent Progressive party candidate for president in 1952, today was sentenced to prison, and in a bitter denunciation of the courts, announced he would quit law practice to devote himself to politics.

The wealthy attorney was sentenced to 18 months and fined $50,000 for evading $36,739 in federal income taxes.

Hallinan, former attorney for longshore labor leader Harry Bridges, told newsmen:

"I'm very surprised at the severity of the sentence. I thought it was very harsh.

"Courts are no longer a place for justice, but a place where injustice is validated and sanctified.

"I'm sorry I've spent my life in the courts."

He remarked, however, that he thought federal District Judge Edward P. Murphy "had been fair" in his conduct of the trial.

Today's Chuckle

A businessman called in his secretary. "Take a letter," he said, "to Jones, Smith, Brown and Johnson,

"Gentlemen:—"

"I beg your pardon," said the secretary, "but I must differ with you. I've been out with all four of them."

Two Hunters Trapped On Rail Trestle, Killed

MALVERN, Iowa, Dec. 8 (AP)—Two of four Council Bluffs, Iowa youths, out on a rabbit hunting trip, were killed today when they were trapped on a trestle in the path of a Burlington Railroad passenger train.

Don Reese and Irvin Lee Jr., both 16, were killed. Their companions, Robert Rhoades, 17 and Don Torrez, 18, jumped and landed safely on the banks of Silver Creek under the trestle.

Arthur Murray Robbed

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Four robbers invaded the Park Ave. apartment of dance instructor Arthur Murray tonight and held him and his wife at gunpoint while they looted the place.

Police reported the robbers took jewelry valued at $25,000 and $500 in cash.

Some Legislators See Congress Balking At Ike's Plan For World Atomic Agency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Congressional reaction to President Eisenhower's speech today ranged from applause for his statesmanship to predictions that Congress might balk at authorizing an international atomic setup.

Several legislators noted that Soviet Russia has already rejected American proposals for international control of atomic production.

Former President Herbert Hoover commented:

"President Eisenhower has made a proposal of great nobility. I pray it may be accepted by all the world.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said in a statement:

"The President has spoken for the conscience of all men of good will.

"When the President's plan is submitted to the Congress, I hope it will receive prompt and favorable consideration."

But Rep. Durham (D-SC), also a member of the joint atomic committee, told newsmen he thought it would be "a long time before Congress will take the responsibility" of changing the atomic energy act to authorize an international atomic agency under the United Nations, as proposed by Eisenhower.

"It will not be easy to convince Congress that it is not some form of a foreign give-away program," Durham said.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), who has sharply criticized some phases of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, lauded the President's proposal for a U.N. atomic control agency.

"If the Russians would consent, it would certainly be a step forward," McCarthy said.

"Even if they don't, I think the suggestion is good because it would point up the fact that we are willing to have inspection and control—and Russia is not."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Many world diplomats hailed President Eisenhower's call today for universal cooperation in the peaceful use of atomic energy as an historic new approach that could open a way for easing of fears of all peoples.

The Soviet bloc delegates to the U.N. General Assembly, who heard the President call on the Russians, particularly, to pool their nuclear raw materials, said they would have to study the proposals before they could comment.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky was busy taking notes while he listened to the President's speech. He would not comment afterwards.

But throughout the rest of the 60-nation world forum — among pro-Western nations and neutral Asian and Arab countries alike—the general reaction was one of hearty approval of the principles in the Eisenhower address.

Scientist Facing Perjury Action On Basis Of Rosenberg Testimony

Transcript To Be Sent Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) —The McCarthy investigating committee moved today to start perjury proceedings against a suspended Army radar expert—partly on the basis of "from the grave" testimony by executed atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

Roy Cohn, counsel to the Senate investigations subcommittee, said Rosenberg's testimony while on trial for his life is in "direct, flat contradiction" to a denial by radar specialist Aaron Coleman that he knew Rosenberg at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Chairman McCarthy R-Wis) then announced a transcript of the Coleman testimony—with a "from the grave" rebuttal by Rosenberg —will be sent to the Justice Department "with the recommendation that it be submitted to the grand jury."

Coleman was the first witness called today as the investigators, looking for evidence of Soviet radar spying at Ft. Monmouth's Army Signal Corps laboratories, switched their hearings from New York to Washington.

An alert, sober-faced man with horn rimmed glasses, Coleman listened to a reading of portions of the record of the New York hearings in which he testified:

1. He did not belong to the Young Communist League while attending the College of the City of New York in the late 1930's.

2. He had no contact with Rosenberg when they worked during the same period at Ft. Monmouth in the 1940's.

Coleman, who lives in Long Branch, N.J., said this was an accurate report of his testimony. Then Cohn proceeded to challenge Coleman's testimony on both points.

First he called Nathan Sussman of New York, who testified he was a college classmate of Coleman's and that he, Coleman and Rosenberg all were members of the Young Communist League. Sussman said he later dropped out of Communist activities.

Then McCarthy asked if Cohn had a witness to dispute the other point in Coleman's testimony.

"I have, Mr. Chairman," Cohn replied, "but not a living witness"

He then proceeded to read from the record of the New York trial which ended in the conviction of Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, on charges of wartime espionage. The Rosenbergs were electrocuted earlier this year.

Cohn said Rosenberg listed among the college classmates with whom he had contact "Mr. Aaron Coleman who, subsequent to graduation, I met at Ft. Monmouth."

McCarthy labelled this "testimony from the grave" and said it probably wouldn't "be admissible in a criminal action for perjury."

Hitler, Eva Movie In World Premier

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 8 (AP)—A documentary film on Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun, which created a stir here and abroad before its first public showing, had its world premier in 10 Hamburg theaters tonight before sell-out audiences.

It was learned in Bonn that a ban on the film will be lifted shortly in eight West German states.

State officials decided at Bonn last month it might stir up old Nazi feelings, create ill will for Germany abroad and threaten "order and security in the nation."

The film, "Until Five Minutes After Twelve," is mainly German and foreign newsreel shots and amateur movies made by Grete Fegelein, widow of Hitler's elite guard adjutant and sister of Eva Braun. Eva married Hitler shortly before their joint suicide in Berlin in 1945.

Pope Pius Prays For World Peace

ROME, Dec. 8 (AP) — Pope Pius XII, in the principal inaugural ceremony of the Marian year, prayed today to the Virgin Mary to end hatred in the world and bring it "universal and sincere peace."

The words were from the Marian year prayer which he composed. His voice ringing with emotion, the Pope spoke in christendom's oldest church dedicated to the mother of Jesue — the Basilica of St. Mary Major.

The 77-year-old pontiff, looking rather frail, was given a tremendous ovation by hundreds of thousands of Romans and pilgrims who lined his five-mile route from the Vatican to the Basilica.

For the first time since he became Pope in 1939, the pontiff paused in Rome's central Spanish Square to add his floral offering to thousands of others brought there to the monument to the Immaculate Conception.

The Marian year, proclaimed by the pontiff, honors the centenary of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. Decreed by Pius IX on Dec. 8, 1854, the dogma made it a tenet of faith for Roman Catholics to believe that the Virgin Mary was conceived without the stain of original sin. All other men, Catholics, believe, inherit this sin from the disobedience of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

State Agencies Seek 11% Boost In Budget Funds

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—State agencies now operating on $103,700,000 have asked an additional 11 per cent for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

With practically all departments on record, budget requests total $115,150,000 in general funds.

Gov. McKeldin said last week the requests have been "rather substantially reduced in many instances." He didn't say which or by how much.

The governor's policy has been to make public bids for appropriations but to keep allowances secret until he recommends a budget to the General Assembly. The 1954-55 budget will be the first order of business at the session beginning next Feb. 3.

General funds are raised by taxes of wide application, such as those on income and sales. They finance most state governmental activities.

The budget also includes special funds to pay for designated services. The gasoline tax for road construction and student fees at the University of Maryland are among these funds.

The current budget of $197,344,000 includes $93,635,000 in special funds. Requests are based on anticipated revenue from the taxes involved. With roads and university estimates still incomplete, little more than nine million dollars have been put on this side of the state's books for next year.

General fund items represent what the administration decides to allow after reviewing how much each department wants. The Legislature may reduce the governor's allotment, with some exceptions, but increase none.

Most of the biggest request to date cannot be touched. It's the $45,105,000 asked for education. The governor and department of budget and procurement, which screens requests, may knock off some of the $2,241,000 sought for teachers' colleges. But they and the Legislature must keep hands off all but a tiny portion of $34,580,000 for aid to public schools.

The law sets up a complicated formula based on the number of teachers and pupils and real estate values to determine how much the state should contribute to its schools.

U. N. Assembly Votes Korea Debate Delay

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly voted today to postpone indefinitely any reopening of debate on Korea.

The 60-nation Assembly decided, 55 to 0 with five Soviet bloc abstentions, to recess the present session as soon as it cleans up all the business on its current agenda, which it is expected to do by tomorrow.

The resolution authorized the Assembly president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, to call the world body back into session whenever circumstances demanded, provided the majority of the members concurred.

Greyhound Union Row Is Argued Before NLRB

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP) — Two American Federation of Labor unions were heard today by the regional National Labor Relations Board on an attempt by one to take representation of Greyhound bus line mechanics away from the other.

The hearing was on a petition by the International Association of Machinists (IAM) to be certified instead of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes of America as the bargaining representative.

The IAM wants to "carve out" the mechanics, helpers and maintenance employes at Greyhound garages in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Baltimore, Columbus, Cincinnati, Lima and Harrisburg as its members.

Baltimore Policeman Convicted Of Bribery

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Peter M. Chrusniak, suspended Baltimore policeman charged with bribery and obstructing justice, was convicted today by Judge Joseph Carter in Criminal Court.

The policeman was accused by a motorist, Henry C. Narock, 17, of offering to do Narock a favor in return for $20.

Peace Project

sessed by four nations will eventually be shared by others.

"Second, even a vast superiority in numbers of weapons, and a consequent capability of devastating retaliation, is no preventive of itself against the fearful material damage and toll of human lives that would be inflicted by surprise aggression."

After clearly and simply setting forth the atomic quandary in which the world finds itself—sometimes in language which bore a Churchillian cast—Eisenhower went on to detail his new plan.

He recalled that the General Assembly had recommended that the U.N. Disarmament Commission study appointment of a subcommittee to seek an acceptable solution on atomic control. Members probably would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

"New Conception"

The United States, Eisenhower declared, is prepared on instant notice to meet with these countries in "private conversations" to find an acceptable solution to the atomic armaments race. But, he added:

"We shall carry into these private talks a new conception.

"The United States would seek more than the mere reduction or elimination of atomic materials available for military purposes.

"It is not enough just to take this weapon out of the hands of the soldiers. It must be put into the hands of those who will know how to strip its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace.

"I therefore make the following proposal:

"The governments principally involved, to the extent permitted by elementary prudence, to begin now and continue to make joint contributions from their stockpiles of normal uranium and fissionable materials to an International Atomic Energy Agency. We would expect that such an agency would be set up under the aegis of the United Nations.

"The ratios of contributions, the procedures and other details would properly be within the scope of the 'private conversations' I have referred to earlier.

Prepared To Submit Plan

"The atomic energy agency could be made responsible for the impounding, storage and protection of the contributed fissionable and other materials. The ingenuity of our scientists will provide special safe conditions under which such a bank of fissionable material could be made essentially immune to surprise seizure.

"The more important responsibility of this atomic energy agency would be to devise methods whereby this fissionable material would be allocated to serve the peaceful pursuits of mankind."

The President told his intently listening audience he was prepared to submit such a plan to Congress with every expectation it would be approved. He laid down as one condition, however, that the Soviet Union must be one of the countries which would take part.

He said the plan should have the following four points:

"First — Encourage world-wide investigation into the most effective peacetime uses of fissionable material.

"Second—Begin to diminish the potential destructive power of the world's atomic stockpiles.

"Third—Allow all peoples of all nations to see that, in this enlightened age, the great powers of the earth, both of the East and of the West, are interested in human aspirations first and foremost rather than in building up the armaments of war.

"Fourth—Open up a new channel for peaceful discussion and initiate at least a new approach to the many difficult problems that must be solved in both private and public conferences if the world is to shake off the inertia imposed by fear and make positive progress toward peace."

Girl, 23, Returns To Chicago With Globe-Circling Record

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (AP)—A trim, 23-year-old girl, inexperienced as an air traveler, returned to Chicago today with a new record for circling the world in commercial air line planes.

Pamela Martin, whose view of world capitals was mostly limited to what she saw from the air and airports, landed at Midway airport 90 hours and 59 minutes after her Friday take-off. The previous record, set in June, was 99 hours and 16 minutes.

Despite the lack of sleep—she had only 10 hours since Friday—Pam told newsmen and photographers who awaited her arrival she felt "fresh as a daisy."

It was "a wonderful trip," she said, although she never left an airport.

Pam traveled light — two extra blouses, an extra dress, a mink jacket, and an extra hat and coat.

She said she spent $100 of her personal funds "for souvenirs" she bought at London, Rome, Tokyo, Karachi, Rangoon, Manila, Okinawa, Cairo and Bangkok, among cities where she stopped. She preferred Tokyo, she said, because of "the nice scenery there."

Pam, an advertising copywriter who came to Chicago from Albuquerque, N.M., said she made 18 stopovers. The shortest was 20 [illegible]s at Bangkok and the longest five hours at London. She used five air lines and changed planes seven times.

300,000,000 Will Hear Ike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency estimated today that 300 million persons will hear President Eisenhower's speech on atomic energy —more than ever before in the history of U. S. propaganda efforts.

The speech was broadcast by major U. S. radio and television networks and beamed simultaneously throughout the world over 32 Voice of America transmitters.

Translated into 33 other languages, it will be recorded and broadcast later over 82 transmitters in all parts of the world. Television films will be flown to 15 countries in Western Europe, Latin America and the Far East.

The trumpet call of the whooping crane can be heard for about three miles.

It was learned in Bonn that a ban on the film will be lifted shortly in eight West German states.

State officials decided at Bonn last month it might stir up old Nazi feelings, create ill will for Germany abroad and threaten "order and security in the nation."

The film, "Until Five Minutes After Twelve," is mainly German and foreign newsreel shots and amateur movies made by Grete Fegelein, widow of Hitler's elite guard adjutant and sister of Eva Braun. Eva married Hitler shortly before their joint suicide in Berlin in 1945.

Pope Pius Prays For World Peace

ROME, Dec. 8 (AP) — Pope Pius XII, in the principal inaugural ceremony of the Marian year, prayed today to the Virgin Mary to end hatred in the world and bring it "universal and sincere peace."

The words were from the Marian year prayer which he composed. His voice ringing with emotion, the Pope spoke in christendom's oldest church dedicated to the mother of Jesue — the Basilica of St. Mary Major.

The 77-year-old pontiff, looking rather frail, was given a tremendous ovation by hundreds of thousands of Romans and pilgrims who lined his five-mile route from the Vatican to the Basilica.

For the first time since he became Pope in 1939, the pontiff paused in Rome's central Spanish Square to add his floral offering to thousands of others brought there to the monument to the Immaculate Conception.

The Marian year, proclaimed by the pontiff, honors the centenary of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. Decreed by Pius IX on Dec. 8, 1854, the dogma made it a tenet of faith for Roman Catholics to believe that the Virgin Mary was conceived without the stain of original sin. All other men, Catholics, believe, inherit this sin from the disobedience of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

State Agencies Seek 11% Boost In Budget Funds

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—State agencies now operating on $103,700,000 have asked an additional 11 per cent for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

With practically all departments on record, budget requests total $115,150,000 in general funds.

Gov. McKeldin said last week the requests have been "rather substantially reduced in many instances." He didn't say which or by how much.

The governor's policy has been to make public bids for appropriations but to keep allowances secret until he recommends a budget to the General Assembly. The 1954-55 budget will be the first order of business at the session beginning next Feb. 3.

General funds are raised by taxes of wide application, such as those on income and sales. They finance most state governmental activities.

The budget also includes special funds to pay for designated services. The gasoline tax for road construction and student fees at the University of Maryland are among these funds.

The current budget of $197,344,000 includes $93,635,000 in special funds. Requests are based on anticipated revenue from the taxes involved. With roads and university estimates still incomplete, little more than nine million dollars have been put on this side of the state's books for next year.

General fund items represent what the administration decides to allow after reviewing how much each department wants. The Legislature may reduce the governor's allotment, with some exceptions, but increase none.

Most of the biggest request to date cannot be touched. It's the $45,105,000 asked for education. The governor and department of budget and procurement, which screens requests, may knock off some of the $2,241,000 sought for teachers' colleges. But they and the Legislature must keep hands off all but a tiny portion of $34,580,000 for aid to public schools.

The law sets up a complicated formula based on the number of teachers and pupils and real estate values to determine how much the state should contribute to its schools.

U. N. Assembly Votes Korea Debate Delay

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly voted today to postpone indefinitely any reopening of debate on Korea.

The 60-nation Assembly decided, 55 to 0 with five Soviet bloc abstentions, to recess the present session as soon as it cleans up all the business on its current agenda, which it is expected to do by tomorrow.

The resolution authorized the Assembly president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, to call the world body back into session whenever circumstances demanded, provided the majority of the members concurred.

Greyhound Union Row Is Argued Before NLRB

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP) — Two American Federation of Labor unions were heard today by the regional National Labor Relations Board on an attempt by one to take representation of Greyhound bus line mechanics away from the other.

The hearing was on a petition by the International Association of Machinists (IAM) to be certified instead of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes of America as the bargaining representative.

The IAM wants to "carve out" the mechanics, helpers and maintenance employes at Greyhound garages in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Baltimore, Columbus, Cincinnati, Lima and Harrisburg as its members.

Baltimore Policeman Convicted Of Bribery

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Peter M. Chrusniak, suspended Baltimore policeman charged with bribery and obstructing justice, was convicted today by Judge Joseph Carter in Criminal Court.

The policeman was accused by a motorist, Henry C. Narock, 17, of offering to do Narock a favor in return for $20.

Sentencing was withheld pending possible appeal.

Peace Project

sessed by four nations will eventually be shared by others.

"Second, even a vast superiority in numbers of weapons, and a consequent capability of devastating retaliation, is no preventive of itself against the fearful material damage and toll of human lives that would be inflicted by surprise aggression."

After clearly and simply setting forth the atomic quandary in which the world finds itself—sometimes in language which bore a Churchillian cast—Eisenhower went on to detail his new plan.

He recalled that the General Assembly had recommended that the U.N. Disarmament Commission study appointment of a subcommittee to seek an acceptable solution on atomic control. Members probably would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

"New Conception"

The United States, Eisenhower declared, is prepared on instant notice to meet with these countries in "private conversations" to find an acceptable solution to the atomic armaments race. But, he added:

"We shall carry into these private talks a new conception.

"The United States would seek more than the mere reduction or elimination of atomic materials available for military purposes.

"It is not enough just to take this weapon out of the hands of the soldiers. It must be put into the hands of those who will know how to strip its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace.

"I therefore make the following proposal:

"The governments principally involved, to the extent permitted by elementary prudence, to begin now and continue to make joint contributions from their stockpiles of normal uranium and fissionable materials to an International Atomic Energy Agency. We would expect that such an agency would be set up under the aegis of the United Nations.

"The ratios of contributions, the procedures and other details would properly be within the scope of the 'private conversations' I have referred to earlier.

Prepared To Submit Plan

"The atomic energy agency could be made responsible for the impounding, storage and protection of the contributed fissionable and other materials. The ingenuity of our scientists will provide special safe conditions under which such a bank of fissionable material could be made essentially immune to surprise seizure.

"The more important responsibility of this atomic energy agency would be to devise methods whereby this fissionable material would be allocated to serve the peaceful pursuits of mankind."

The President told his intently listening audience he was prepared to submit such a plan to Congress with every expectation it would be approved. He laid down as one condition, however, that the Soviet Union must be one of the countries which would take part.

He said the plan should have the following four points:

"First — Encourage world-wide investigation into the most effective peacetime uses of fissionable material.

"Second—Begin to diminish the potential destructive power of the world's atomic stockpiles.

"Third—Allow all peoples of all nations to see that, in this enlightened age, the great powers of the earth, both of the East and of the West, are interested in human aspirations first and foremost rather than in building up the armaments of war.

"Fourth—Open up a new channel for peaceful discussion and initiate at least a new approach to the many difficult problems that must be solved in both private and public conferences if the world is to shake off the inertia imposed by fear and make positive progress toward peace."

Girl, 23, Returns To Chicago With Globe-Circling Record

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (AP)—A trim, 23-year-old girl, inexperienced as an air traveler, returned to Chicago today with a new record for circling the world in commercial air line planes.

Pamela Martin, whose view of world capitals was mostly limited to what she saw from the air and airports, landed at Midway airport 90 hours and 59 minutes after her Friday take-off. The previous record, set in June, was 99 hours and 16 minutes.

Despite the lack of sleep—she had only 10 hours since Friday—Pam told newsmen and photographers who awaited her arrival she felt "fresh as a daisy."

It was "a wonderful trip," she said, although she never left an airport.

Pam traveled light — two extra blouses, an extra dress, a mink jacket, and an extra hat and coat.

She said she spent $100 of her personal funds "for souvenirs" she bought at London, Rome, Tokyo, Karachi, Rangoon, Manila, Okinawa, Cairo and Bangkok, among cities where she stopped. She preferred Tokyo, she said, because of "the nice scenery there."

Pam, an advertising copywriter who came to Chicago from Albuquerque, N.M., said she made 18 stopovers. The shortest was 20 [illegible]s at Bangkok and the longest five hours at London. She used five air lines and changed planes seven times.

300,000,000 Will Hear Ike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency estimated today that 300 million persons will hear President Eisenhower's speech on atomic energy—more than ever before in the history of U. S. propaganda efforts.

The speech was broadcast by major U. S. radio and television networks and beamed simultaneously throughout the world over 32 Voice of America transmitters.

Translated into 33 other languages, it will be recorded and broadcast later over 82 transmitters in all parts of the world. Television films will be flown to 15 countries in Western Europe, Latin America and the Far East.

The trumpet call of the whooping crane can be heard for about three miles.

Private Industry Is Asked To Help Build Atom Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Private industry may join the government in financing a proposed full-scale atomic power plant, the Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday.

It publicly invited industry to submit proposals for investment of risk capital, and said it has discussed with several organizations proposals for use of private funds for the steam turbine and electrical generating portions of the project. It also has discussed private operation of the entire power plant, it said.

Plans for the plant, to cost "many tens of million dollars," were announced last Oct. 22 with the Westinghouse Corp. as the prime contractor.

The announcement of the government's plans came a week after the General Electric Co. announced it would apply to the AEC for permission to construct its own atomic power plant near the AEC's Hanford, Wash., plutonium producing plant, which GE operates for the government.

The AEC announcement made no mention of the GE application.

It said no site has yet been selected for the proposed plant, but modified an earlier announcement to say that the attractiveness of the private financing offer would "considerably influence" the selection.

The earlier announcement had said the plant would be located near one of the AEC's facilities for separating uranium-235. One such facility already is operating at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and others are under construction at Paducah, Ky., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

TEST ENDS IN CRASH — Merle Larson, Air Force veteran, sits on the ground (left) beside his wrecked experimental plane after it crashed at Oakland, Calif. Boy Asks Chunk Of Plymouth Rock

BOSTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—It was just a routine letter from Jennings Ferguson, fifth grade, Barboursville, W. Va., until Natural Resources Commissioner Arthur T. Lyman read the last paragraph.

"I would like very much," it said, "to have a piece of Plymouth Rock."

Sorry, Jennings, old boy, that's one thing that's not being done, says the commissioner.

"We'd like to fill your request, but that little chunk of stone is kinda sacred 'round these parts.

That's The Rock the Pilgrims walked on. We just can't go passing pieces of it around like that. There wouldn't be any rock left.

It's possible that you can have samples of most anything else we hold dear—like a chunk of Ted Williams' bat, or a blade of grass from the Harvard Yard, or a lobster pot that once hung in Gloucester.

But, please, don't ask us for a piece of Plymouth Rock. It's just not done, Jennings, old boy.

However, we do appreciate your asking. In the course of centuries, others have taken a more direct approach.

That's why there's a big canopy and a railing around the little rock that used to be a large rock in Plymouth.

Senator Morse's Committees

Party dilemmas, as well as government policies, will be thrashed out at the three-day conference, scheduled to begin on Thursday between President Eisenhower and the Republican leaders in Congress. One of those dilemmas could well be what to do about Senator Morse of Oregon and his pre-1953 memberships on Senate committees.

Morse was re-elected in 1950 (by better than a three to one vote) as a Republican, but he supported Stevenson for president in 1952, and thereafter called himself an independent. On 25 important rollcall votes in the Senate in 1953 when most of the Democrats were on one side and most of the Republicans on the other, Morse was with the Democrats 19 times, with the Republicans only six times.

After the 1952 election the Republicans decided to take Morse off the Armed Services and Labor committees, on the ground that he had been assigned to them as a Republican. The Senate ratified that decision in two votes, in January by 81 to 7, in May by 56 to 19. The Oregon independent was given posts on two less important committees: Public Works and District of Columbia.

But in 1953 the Republicans had a majority of one in the Senate. In 1954 the Democrats will have a majority of one, due to the replacement of the late Senator Taft by a Democrat. Morse has said he will vote with the Republicans in 1954 on organizing the Senate, but has promised nothing more.

If the GOP should now try to placate Morse by granting him his old committee posts, with his old ranking (seniority) on them, it will be following precedent. In 1925 certain Republican members of Congress were deprived of their committee seniorities for having supported Senator La Follette for president, but in 1927 were restored to them. The midterm elections of 1926 had reduced the GOP majority in the Senate from 14 to one, and La Follette's son was sitting there as an independent.

Capitalists Preferred

Apparently an American could proclaim himself a capitalist the length and breadth of Turkey and not raise one boo or sneer. According to Turkish Prime Minister Menderes, Turkey is on the threshold of a Western style industrial boom. Turkey likes both the theory and practice of capitalism. The door is open to foreigners who hold similar views to invest their money there.

In an interview with a correspondent of the magazine "U. S. News and World Report," Prime Minister Menderes points out that productivity has doubled in the last four years, that foreign trade has increased 80 per cent in value, and that domestic consumption is showing "great development."

But the greatest single advance toward a thoroughly free enterprise type of economy was the Turkish government's decision to accept without reservation the recommendations of the Randall Commission, in connection with foreign investments. The commission, now touring Europe for the U. S. government, told the Turks they could attract foreign money and brains faster if they made changes regarding outside investment.

The gist of the recommendations, which have now been placed before the Turkish National Assembly, is that foreign capital would be allowed in every field which would speed the economic development of the country. Investors would be guaranteed free transfer of profits and principal.

The Turks have added such inducements as not requiring a certain percentage of Turkish capital or direction in foreign firms, and allowing foreign firms to hire just about whom they wish—either Turkish or foreign help—without hindrance of any government FEPC edicts.

Getting Under Way

The Yuletide season, the busiest of the year, is getting under way with a vengeance and soon will be in full swing in stores, post offices and in every commercial and institutional establishment that annually is deluged with business during the December boom.

Although the last few days before Christmas still are a nightmare for clerks in stores and post offices, the mail man, and all those who qualify as Santa's assistants, campaigns which were carried on for years to spread Christmas buying and mailing during a period of roughly 30 days before the big event have had the effect of taking a little of the edge off the last-minute stampede.

As a result, the mails will soon be loaded down with Christmas packages and cards, and stocks of Christmas merchandise in some lines will begin to melt away by the middle of the month, or sooner.

It is a nerve-wracking time for clerks. Everyone can help by buying now and mailing soon. A feeling of real accomplishment is promoted by getting the job done.

Mrs. Sung's Burner

The city of Pusan, on the southeast tip of the Korean Peninsula, never was outstanding by occidental standards. When it became the principal port of entry in the Korean War, it enjoyed a sort of war prosperity. During the terrible days in the early fall of 1950 Pusan became a warren of refugees and homeless Koreans.

The other day a fire, reported to have been started when a housewife upset a charcoal filled burner in a straw hut, soon got out of control. When it was over a sixth of the city was in ashes, more than 31,000 were homeless. This at a time when the Korean winter enters its bitterest stages. Total damage, including loss of some American installations, will be more than $35,000,000.

Relatively speaking, the damage done to the city of Chicago in the fall of 1871, supposedly when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern, had nothing on the mess caused by Mrs. Sung's burner. Korean rehabilitation, in full swing under civilian and military aegis, is being diverted to take care of this new catastrophe.

How To Keep Well

The Lowly Ameba

It has been estimated that at least 10 per cent of the population in the United States harbors the organisms responsible for amebic dysentery. The majority are healthy carriers; they do not seek medical attention because they are neither ill nor in distress.

There are so many remedies for amebic dysentery that every physician has his favorite, plus five or six to spare. Some drugs work best during the acute stage when there is high fever, abdominal pain, and bloody diarrhea. The list includes emetine, didoquin, aureomycin, terramycin, fumagillin, and the arsenicals. These products also are of value in the milder form of the disease. One is used for 10 days and then another to complete a series of treatments. After a rest of 10 to 20 days another series is started provided the ameba still exists. Milibis is the choice of physicians south of the border for cases of this type and the English frequently recommend a mixture of emetine, bismuth, and iodine.

When amebiasis spreads to the liver, abscesses develop and in the past, emetine was the most satisfactory treatment for this complication. Chloroquine (Aralen), the malaria remedy, is rapidly becoming a competitor of emetine. These preparations are mentioned because the modern treatment of amebiasis requires various combinations of drugs. Cures are difficult to evaluate because many examinations of the stool must be made before the physician is convinced that the organisms are gone for good.

Amebiasis was named after a single celled parasite which, under the microscope, looks like a fried egg sunnyside up. It is at home in the large intestine where it invades the wall of the colon to produce irritation and ulceration. This is the cause of dysentery.

Amebae have a simple sex life; to propagate, each simply divides into two, then four, then eight, ad infinitum. When conditions become too crowded the offspring are passed to the outside in the excreta. Some are prepared for the cruel outer world by being encased in a heavy resistant wall that serves as a warm overcoat. These cysts are capable of remaining alive outside the body for a longer time and, when ingested by another individual, pass through the stomach without being digested by the acid juices. On reaching the colon they shed their coat and start the cycle all over.

The infection generally is transferred from man to man through infected food handlers, flies, or drinking water. As a rule, massive exposure is required although theoretically it is possible for one cyst to produce the disease. The food handler is the main culprit in regions where good sanitation prevails. In primitive areas, and especially where human excreta is used for fertilizer, spread occurs through improperly cooked vegetables and contaminated water. Here in the United States amebiasis is more prevalent in the south than in the north.

Secretary Of Treasury Gets Ribbed By Secretary Of Defense; Korean TB's Suffer Because Of American Red Tape; Communists Get Drugs While U. S. Haggles

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey got a mischievous phone call the other day from Secretary of Defense Wilson, ribbing him about "background" press conferences.

Humphrey was still burning over a press session at which he remarked that the budget would have to get cut about $6,000,000,000, three-quarters of which would probably have to come out of the military budget.

Newsmen were told that the secretary could not be quoted directly and that he was talking for "background" only. So when Humphrey saw his quotes on the United Press ticker afterward, he hit the ceiling. The U. P. had attributed the statements to a "high Treasury official," and therefore it was not a violation of the background agreement. However, Humphrey thought his remarks had come out much stronger than intended, so he called in U. P. reporter Dick Mooney and bawled him out for half an hour.

Next day, the secretary of the treasury got a phone call from the secretary of defense.

"Welcome to the club," greeted the secretary of defense.

"What club?" asked the secretary of the treasury.

"The club that has been stung by background press conferences," chortled Secretary Wilson. "I imagine Foster will issue you your membership card."

Wilson referred to John Foster Dulles, who, as secretary of state, was the first to get into hot water through a background press conference.

Red Tape-Bound Drugs

Behind glowing public statements about U. S. aid to the stricken people of South Korea, there's a tragic, totally senseless story of government red tape. It's a story of bungling in Washington and death in South Korea.

Today an estimated 1,500,000 South Koreans, of whom more than 150,000 are orphans, are victims of tuberculosis. Yet two important drugs, in plentiful supply in this country—dihydrostreptomicin sulfate and ambistryn—are withheld from South Korea except under severe restrictions.

American manufacturers and exporters are anxious to ship both these drugs, and Korean importers, with money in hand, are becoming desperate waiting for the shipments to arrive.

But most shipments are being held up, largely because of a squabble between the State Department and the Commerce Department. Both are so "Communist conscious" that they're going far out of their way to insure that none of the drugs fall into North Korean Communist hands. And both so "economy minded" that they've fired the technical experts capable of ascertaining whether the shipments would fall into Communist hands. Result: delay, confusion, and death.

Meanwhile, Japan, through agreement with the United States, is now shipping sulfa drugs and other pharmaceuticals into Communist China, while West Germany is sending valuable drugs, including antibiotics, behind the other side of the iron curtain.

In short, countries under American influence are shipping these precious drugs into Russian-controlled areas, but shipments of the same drugs to our most severely hurt allies are snafued in bureaucracy.

Children Die

While the Korean War raged, American drug companies had no trouble getting export licenses from the Commerce Department. But recently the State and Commerce departments tightened their regulations and demanded that the American embassy in Korea give clearance to Korean importers. This means that the embassy must check on the Korean company and make sure it's doing business in South Korea, not transshipping to China.

To this end, Koreans were first told to go to the American embassy in Seoul and fill out forms to identify themselves. But when Korean importers trooped to the embassy to comply, they got word that they must operate through the Commerce Department in Washington — 6,000 miles away. They were told to request the Commerce Department to check them as security risks.

Accordingly, Korean importers sent cables to the Commerce Department. But this system promptly broke down. The Commerce Department lacked sufficient personnel to handle the requests.

As an alternative, the Commerce Department asked U. S. exporters to cable the American embassy in Seoul to check on the security of their Korean customers. But after a few days this system was also abandoned. "We don't have the staff," explained the American embassy in Seoul.

Today the whole matter is stymied, with the State and Commerce departments each urging the other to supply the "necessary" staff to handle the job of checking the security of import firms.

Said frustrated exporter Peter Michelson:

"We can't ship the necessary drugs because a few ounces might fall into the hands of the Communists. But at the same time the rest of the free world is shipping the same drugs to the Communists—and even our own country is putting its O.K. on German and Japanese shipments to the Communists. This sounds like a Gilbert and Sullivan comedy—except that Korean kids are dying while we flounder."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Twelve years ago this week the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor—and the general impression in America ever since then has been that the war came unexpectedly and suddenly, without warning of any kind. This is fallacious, and it is important to refute such a notion because wars do not come without warning. The nation expected war with Japan. There was absolutely no justification for the failure of the Army and Navy chiefs in Washington to establish the kind of defense against attack which would have prevented the loss of more than 3,000 American lives.

Not only was the fleet kept in the harbor when it should have been at sea, but the Army did not have the necessary planes in Hawaii to thwart an airplane attack launched from the decks of naval aircraft carriers in the event that the first line of defense—the Navy—was penetrated.

People Were Aware

The American people were aware of the prospect of war with Japan, but why, therefore, did not the Army and Navy know that war conditions were virtually begun several days before December 7, 1941, when the attack on Pearl Harbor occurred?

This correspondent reflected in his dispatches prior to the fatal December 7 the awareness of official Washington on the gravity of the war crisis.

On December 1, 1941, this correspondent wrote:

"If the United States and Japan are on the verge of war—and the headlines would seem to indicate it, as do also the strange maneuvers behind the scenes—then it is the first time in the history of the United States that a major war approaches without informing the American people on just what the issues are and why war is so essential to the settlement of the difficulties."

On December 2, 1941, this correspondent wrote as follows:

"For reasons best known to the exponents of secret diplomacy, the United States is taking the lead in the Far East. One wonder what the President will say to Congress if war betweenJapan and the United States does come. That's one reason why it is desired to do nothing to take the initiative in a military way, leaving the aggression to be an act of the Japanese."

The same day Prime Minister Churchill had announced that, if war came between the United States and Japan, Great Britain would within an hour declare war against Japan.

On December 2, 1941, after speculating where the "overt act" might come, the writer said:

"War with Japan means war between the United States and Germany, too. But even this risk is in the minds of high officials as one that cannot deter the United States from standing firm in its relations with Japan.

"The situation has not taken on a final pattern, however. The chance for a peaceful settlement is dependent on the absence or presence of an overt act that can at any moment end the discussions and conversations between the two governments."

Blame Never Fixed

Most of the dispatches written by this correspondent in the days prior to the break were taken up with arguments as to how peace could be maintained, and it was suggested that an agreement to preserve the status quo of the military forces be worked out so that peace conversations could proceed without threat of interruption by an overt act.

The gravity of the whole situation was described to the newspaper correspondents by Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, several days before the attack at Pearl Harbor. The press reflected the seriousness of the turn of affairs in our relations with Japan. War was definitely in the headlines. Yet somebody in the military services in Washington blundered. The necessary orders to make sure the Army and Navy were on the alert at Hawaii were never issued—and there never was a courtmartial of the late Admiral Kimmel and the late General Short, both of whom demanded it in vain. So the truth of what did happen inside the military establishment in Washington has never been fixed, and the blame has never been imposed where it belonged.

The Smear That Never Ends

Harold Ickes is dead and has left behind a diary which is most interesting because comparisons can now be made with what Ickes believed when he was a blatant major-domo of the Roosevelt regime. Apparently Ickes disliked many of the New Dealers.

For those who have forgotten Ickes, he was secretar, of the interior in the Roosevelt cabinet. He had been a Republican who had moved into the Bull Moose Progressive party of Theodore Roosevelt, back to the Republicans, and landed in the New Deal. His ambition was to be head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs but he was made secretary of the interior instead. Forceful in speech, quarrelsome in manner, independently rich by marriage, Ickes cut quite a figure in the hey-day of changing the world. He enjoyed a noisy fight and managed to keep himself on the front pages of newspapers by the expression of meticulously conceived spontaneous outbursts of unusual phraseology.

One paragraph in his secret diary, now no longer secret, intrigued me because it conunues the smear of an American patriot, William A. Wirt, who was hounded to death by the group which is now being brought to the exposure of blinding light. Shall I appoint myself the guardian of the memory of this fine American?

The Ickes paragraph reads:

"I had learned yesterday that when a newspaper reporter called recently to interview Dr. William Wirt at his camp in Gary, Ind., he asked Wirt if he could use his telephone. Assent being given, he was shown into a closet and when he turned the light on in there, he saw a pile of silver shirts, the uniform of a Fascist order that is attempted to be built up in the country at this time. I suggested to the President that it might be well to have an investigation made of this matter."

It would have been more interesting if Ickes had given the name of the reporter so that he could testify under oath to the facts. The Silver Shirts was a screwball organization, founded by William Dudley Pelley, who once wrote an article for a magazine in which he claimed that he died, had a conversation with God, and returned to life. I do not have the article before me, but my recollection after all these years is that his conversation lasted two or three minutes, after which he wrote the aforesaid magazine article. Pelley has been trying to make a living out of it for many years.

To accuse William Wirt of being a Silver Shirt, back in 1934 or 1935, was to say that he was a screwball, a Fascist, a Nazi, a fool. He was none of these, although his attempt to cure the New Deal of fallacy seemed quixotic. And actually what was his crime?

Dr. William Wirt, an educator of Gary, Ind., as far back as April 1934 told the story which is unfolding slowly before this nation today. He went to a dinner party at the home of Alice Barrows. Among those present were: Robert Bruere, chairman of the Textile Code Advisory Committee; David Cushman Coyle, of the Public Works Administration; Hildegarde Kneeland and Mary Taylor, Department of Agriculture economists; Alice Barrows, of the Education Bureau at the Interior Department, and Lawrence Todd, representative of the Soviet news agency.

Wirt said:

"Miss Kneeland said that Tugwell (Rexford Guy) said: 'If we begin to plan nationally we must change once and for all our statutes and Constitution'."

He reported that Lawrence Todd said:

"We believe we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape it.

"We all thing that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution. We believe we can keep him there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin."

It is not clear who this Stalin was to be but there were several aspirants.

Harold Ickes's reference to Dr. Wirt is a reminder of this heroic pedagogue who spoke out in 1934. He was smeared even as though he were a Nazi. He was laughed at and ridiculed and humiliated until he died of it. But we now know that Dr. William A. Wirt told the truth at the very beginning of an unbelievable page of history. He was prophetic.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

BERMUDA—(INS) — The world may go to pot, assuming it has not already reached that millenium, but, by gosh, the amenities will be observed to the end.

The Big Three were greeted with a show of proper protocol and regimented hospitality that sorely puzzled an impatient bystander who often wonders why there should be so many ramifications to peace-making. Peace, it has always seemed to me, is a handshake. But the years have fantastically complicated the handshake into a 39-story glass building in New York, a 5-tongued assembly hall that makes the Roxy look like a nickelodeon, and heavily staged meetings of accord such as the Bermuda conference.

Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel were here to lay their cards on the table, and maybe pound on it a bit, and let each other know exactly what the score is. They could have accomplished whatever they have accomplished in comparatively few minutes or hours, and maybe even by telephone. But here protocol separated them much more than it brought them together.

For example, it was felt necessary by the French to deny that Laniel had spoken "other than informally" to Churchill, though they were sitting around their suites in the same golf club for a full day before Eisenhower arrived. So what if they did talk? That's why they were here, isn't it?

The Big Three didn't know exactly what they were going to talk about, once here. But for days and probably weeks they knew exactly which would be the host nation at luncheon and dinner on December 5, 6, and 7. Solemnly, the luncheon and dinner arrangements were read to us as a "briefing" on the day before Eisenhower took off from Washington.

The Americans entertain the French at luncheon Saturday . . . The British play host to the Americans at dinner on Saturday night . . . the Americans have the British in for lunch Sunday and the French dine the British Sunday night. Then the French come back Monday to have the Americans to lunch . . . and so forth.

Mind you, all the food came out of the same kitchen, and it's a somewhat uninspired one, if memory serves. There must have been sameness to it that reminded the more sensitive peace-makers that there is a sameness to international conferences—in that tradition dating back to the Queen of Sheba making it seldom possible for the parties to the peace-making to get together.

Eisenhower, who let it be known in advance that he didn't expect to sit around Bermuda shadow-boxing interminably, must have winced through many of the iron-clad restrictions diplomacy has placed on the direct approach. It was not considered proper, for instance, for him to see either Churchill or Laniel—except to say helio at the bottom of the plane steps—until four and a half hours after his arrival. Seems that there first had to be a meeting of the minds on a slightly lower level. Dulles, Eden and Bidault had to confer. And there was never any chance for Ike to take off his shoes and sit down with the others on the porch, for a little man-to-man talk.

Peace—it's wonderful. True. But it's also complicated.

There was a contradictory show of military strength surrounding the arrival of each peacemaker. Full dress and stiff as starch.

First to greet each man was Sir Alexander Hood, utterly magnificent in ceremonial uniform, cape, sword, helmet. A pace behind him stood the commanding officers of the military forces represented. These included the Royal Welch Fusiliers with a 45-piece band, the Royal Navy, the U. S. Navy, Marines and Air Force. Ike got a special treatment, being the only head of state present. There was a 26-man Air Force honor guard for him to review. Churchill barely made it through a shorter review. He appeared ready to fall on two occasions.

"Upon completion of the inspection of troops, local and visiting dignitaries will be presented," read the official program. And they were, in all their glory.

And it didn't seem to occur to any of them that the men they were honoring had only the foggiest notion what in blue blazes they were here for, except to further the general cause of peace. All the principals wished, perhaps, was that peace could be as mathematically planned as these brassy appurtenances that do so much to impede it.

Senator Morse's Committees

Party dilemmas, as well as government policies, will be thrashed out at the three-day conference, scheduled to begin on Thursday between President Eisenhower and the Republican leaders in Congress. One of those dilemmas could well be what to do about Senator Morse of Oregon and his pre-1953 memberships on Senate committees.

Morse was re-elected in 1950 (by better than a three to one vote) as a Republican, but he supported Stevenson for president in 1952, and thereafter called himself an independent. On 25 important rollcall votes in the Senate in 1953 when most of the Democrats were on one side and most of the Republicans on the other, Morse was with the Democrats 19 times, with the Republicans only six times.

After the 1952 election the Republicans decided to take Morse off the Armed Services and Labor committees, on the ground that he had been assigned to them as a Republican. The Senate ratified that decision in two votes, in January by 81 to 7, in May by 56 to 19. The Oregon independent was given posts on two less important committees: Public Works and District of Columbia.

But in 1953 the Republicans had a majority of one in the Senate. In 1954 the Democrats will have a majority of one, due to the replacement of the late Senator Taft by a Democrat. Morse has said he will vote with the Republicans in 1954 on organizing the Senate, but has promised nothing more.

If the GOP should now try to placate Morse by granting him his old committee posts, with his old ranking (seniority) on them, it will be following precedent. In 1925 certain Republican members of Congress were deprived of their committee seniorities for having supported Senator La Follette for president, but in 1927 were restored to them. The midterm elections of 1926 had reduced the GOP majority in the Senate from 14 to one, and La Follette's son was sitting there as an independent.

Capitalists Preferred

Apparently an American could proclaim himself a capitalist the length and breadth of Turkey and not raise one boo or sneer. According to Turkish Prime Minister Menderes, Turkey is on the threshold of a Western style industrial boom. Turkey likes both the theory and practice of capitalism. The door is open to foreigners who hold similar views to invest their money there.

In an interview with a correspondent of the magazine "U. S. News and World Report," Prime Minister Menderes points out that productivity has doubled in the last four years, that foreign trade has increased 80 per cent in value, and that domestic consumption is showing "great development."

But the greatest single advance toward a thoroughly free enterprise type of economy was the Turkish government's decision to accept without reservation the recommendations of the Randall Commission, in connection with foreign investments. The commission, now touring Europe for the U. S. government, told the Turks they could attract foreign money and brains faster if they made changes regarding outside investment.

The gist of the recommendations, which have now been placed before the Turkish National Assembly, is that foreign capital would be allowed in every field which would speed the economic development of the country. Investors would be guaranteed free transfer of profits and principal.

The Turks have added such inducements as not requiring a certain percentage of Turkish capital or direction in foreign firms, and allowing foreign firms to hire just about whom they wish—either Turkish or foreign help—without hindrance of any government FEPC edicts.

Getting Under Way

The Yuletide season, the busiest of the year, is getting under way with a vengeance and soon will be in full swing in stores, post offices and in every commercial and institutional establishment that annually is deluged with business during the December boom.

Although the last few days before Christmas still are a nightmare for clerks in stores and post offices, the mail man, and all those who qualify as Santa's assistants, campaigns which were carried on for years to spread Christmas buying and mailing during a period of roughly 30 days before the big event have had the effect of taking a little of the edge off the last-minute stampede.

As a result, the mails will soon be loaded down with Christmas packages and cards, and stocks of Christmas merchandise in some lines will begin to melt away by the middle of the month, or sooner.

It is a nerve-wracking time for clerks. Everyone can help by buying now and mailing soon. A feeling of real accomplishment is promoted by getting the job done.

Mrs. Sung's Burner

The city of Pusan, on the southeast tip of the Korean Peninsula, never was outstanding by occidental standards. When it became the principal port of entry in the Korean War, it enjoyed a sort of war prosperity. During the terrible days in the early fall of 1950 Pusan became a warren of refugees and homeless Koreans.

The other day a fire, reported to have been started when a housewife upset a charcoal filled burner in a straw hut, soon got out of control. When it was over a sixth of the city was in ashes, more than 31,000 were homeless. This at a time when the Korean winter enters its bitterest stages. Total damage, including loss of some American installations, will be more than $35,000,000.

Relatively speaking, the damage done to the city of Chicago in the fall of 1871, supposedly when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern, had nothing on the mess caused by Mrs. Sung's burner. Korean rehabilitation, in full swing under civilian and military aegis, is being diverted to take care of this new catastrophe.

The Lowly Ameba

It has been estimated that at least 10 per cent of the population in the United States harbors the organisms responsible for amebic dysentery. The majority are healthy carriers; they do not seek medical attention because they are neither ill nor in distress.

There are so many remedies for amebic dysentery that every physician has his favorite, plus five or six to spare. Some drugs work best during the acute stage when there is high fever, abdominal pain, and bloody diarrhea. The list includes emetine, didoquin, aureomycin, terramycin, fumagillin, and the arsenicals. These products also are of value in the milder form of the disease. One is used for 10 days and then another to complete a series of treatments. After a rest of 10 to 20 days another series is started provided the ameba still exists. Milibis is the choice of physicians south of the border for cases of this type and the English frequently recommend a mixture of emetine, bismuth, and iodine.

When amebiasis spreads to the liver, abscesses develop and in the past, emetine was the most satisfactory treatment for this complication. Chloroquine (Aralen), the malaria remedy, is rapidly becoming a competitor of emetine. These preparations are mentioned because the modern treatment of amebiasis requires various combinations of drugs. Cures are difficult to evaluate because many examinations of the stool must be made before the physician is convinced that the organisms are gone for good.

Amebiasis was named after a single celled parasite which, under the microscope, looks like a fried egg sunnyside up. It is at home in the large intestine where it invades the wall of the colon to produce irritation and ulceration. This is the cause of dysentery.

Amebae have a simple sex life; to propagate, each simply divides into two, then four, then eight, ad infinitum. When conditions become too crowded the offspring are passed to the outside in the excreta. Some are prepared for the cruel outer world by being encased in a heavy resistant wall that serves as a warm overcoat. The infection generally is transferred from man to man through infected food handlers, flies, or drinking water. As a rule, massive exposure is required although theoretically it is possible for one cyst to produce the disease. The food handler is the main culprit in regions where good sanitation prevails. In primitive areas, and especially where human excreta is used for fertilizer, spread occurs through improperly cooked vegetables and contaminated water. Here in the United States amebiasis is more prevalent in the south than in the north.

American manufacturers and exporters are anxious to ship both these drugs, and Korean importers, with money in hand, are becoming desperate waiting for the shipments to arrive.

But most shipments are being held up, largely because of a squabble between the State Department and the Commerce Department. Both are so "Communist conscious" that they're going far out of their way to insure that none of the drugs fall into North Korean Communist hands. And both so "economy minded" that they've fired the technical experts capable of ascertaining whether the shipments would fall into Communist hands. Result: delay, confusion, and death.

Meanwhile, Japan, through agreement with the United States, is now shipping sulfa drugs and other pharmaceuticals into Communist China, while West Germany is sending valuable drugs, including antibiotics, behind the other side of the iron curtain.

In short, countries under American influence are shipping these precious drugs into Russian-controlled areas, but shipments of the same drugs to our most severely hurt allies are snafued in bureaucracy.

Children Die

While the Korean War raged, American drug companies had no trouble getting export licenses from the Commerce Department. But recently the State and Commerce departments tightened their regulations and demanded that the American embassy in Korea give clearance to Korean importers. This means that the embassy must check on the Korean company and make sure it's doing business in South Korea, not transshipping to China.

To this end, Koreans were first told to go to the American embassy in Seoul and fill out forms to identify themselves. But when Korean importers trooped to the embassy to comply, they got word that they must operate through the Commerce Department in Washington — 6,000 miles away. They were told to request the Commerce Department to check them as security risks.

Accordingly, Korean importers sent cables to the Commerce Department. But this system promptly broke down. The Commerce Department lacked sufficient personnel to handle the requests.

As an alternative, the Commerce Department asked U. S. exporters to cable the American embassy in Seoul to check on the security of their Korean customers. But after a few days this system was also abandoned. "We don't have the staff," explained the American embassy in Seoul.

Today the whole matter is stymied, with the State and Commerce departments each urging the other to supply the "necessary" staff to handle the job of checking the security of import firms.

Said frustrated exporter Peter Michelson:

"We can't ship the necessary drugs because a few ounces might fall into the hands of the Communists. But at the same time the rest of the free world is shipping the same drugs to the Communists—and even our own country is putting its O.K. on German and Japanese shipments to the Communists. This sounds like a Gilbert and Sullivan comedy—except that Korean kids are dying while we flounder."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Twelve years ago this week the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor—and the general impression in America ever since then has been that the war came unexpectedly and suddenly, without warning of any kind. This is fallacious, and it is important to refute such a notion because wars do not come without warning. The nation expected war with Japan. There was absolutely no justification for the failure of the Army and Navy chiefs in Washington to establish the kind of defense against attack which would have prevented the loss of more than 3,000 American lives.

Not only was the fleet kept in the harbor when it should have been at sea, but the Army did not have the necessary planes in Hawaii to thwart an airplane attack launched from the decks of naval aircraft carriers in the event that the first line of defense—the Navy—was penetrated.

People Were Aware

The American people were aware of the prospect of war with Japan, but why, therefore, did not the Army and Navy know that war conditions were virtually begun several days before December 7, 1941, when the attack on Pearl Harbor occurred?

This correspondent reflected in his dispatches prior to the fatal December 7 the awareness of official Washington on the gravity of the war crisis.

On December 1, 1941, this correspondent wrote:

"If the United States and Japan are on the verge of war—and the headlines would seem to indicate it, as do also the strange maneuvers behind the scenes—then it is the first time in the history of the United States that a major war approaches without informing the American people on just what the issues are and why war is so essential to the settlement of the difficulties."

On December 2, 1941, this correspondent wrote as follows:

"For reasons best known to the exponents of secret diplomacy, the United States is taking the lead in the Far East. One wonder what the President will say to Congress if war betweenJapan and the United States does come. That's one reason why it is desired to do nothing to take the initiative in a military way, leaving the aggression to be an act of the Japanese."

The same day Prime Minister Churchill had announced that, if war came between the United States and Japan, Great Britain would within an hour declare war against Japan.

On December 2, 1941, after speculating where the "overt act" might come, the writer said:

"War with Japan means war between the United States and Germany, too. But even this risk is in the minds of high officials as one that cannot deter the United States from standing firm in its relations with Japan.

"The situation has not taken on a final pattern, however. The chance for a peaceful settlement is dependent on the absence or presence of an overt act that can at any moment end the discussions and conversations between the two governments."

Blame Never Fixed

Most of the dispatches written by this correspondent in the days prior to the break were taken up with arguments as to how peace could be maintained, and it was suggested that an agreement to preserve the status quo of the military forces be worked out so that peace conversations could proceed without threat of interruption by an overt act.

The gravity of the whole situation was described to the newspaper correspondents by Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, several days before the attack at Pearl Harbor. The press reflected the seriousness of the turn of affairs in our relations with Japan. War was definitely in the headlines. Yet somebody in the military services in Washington blundered. The necessary orders to make sure the Army and Navy were on the alert at Hawaii were never issued—and there never was a courtmartial of the late Admiral Kimmel and the late General Short, both of whom demanded it in vain. So the truth of what did happen inside the military establishment in Washington has never been fixed, and the blame has never been imposed where it belonged.

The Smear That Never Ends

Harold Ickes is dead and has left behind a diary which is most interesting because comparisons can now be made with what Ickes believed when he was a blatant major-domo of the Roosevelt regime. Apparently Ickes disliked many of the New Dealers.

For those who have forgotten Ickes, he was secretar, of the interior in the Roosevelt cabinet. He had been a Republican who had moved into the Bull Moose Progressive party of Theodore Roosevelt, back to the Republicans, and landed in the New Deal. His ambition was to be head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs but he was made secretary of the interior instead. Forceful in speech, quarrelsome in manner, independently rich by marriage, Ickes cut quite a figure in the hey-day of changing the world. He enjoyed a noisy fight and managed to keep himself on the front pages of newspapers by the expression of meticulously conceived spontaneous outbursts of unusual phraseology.

One paragraph in his secret diary, now no longer secret, intrigued me because it conunues the smear of an American patriot, William A. Wirt, who was hounded to death by the group which is now being brought to the exposure of blinding light. Shall I appoint myself the guardian of the memory of this fine American?

The Ickes paragraph reads:

"I had learned yesterday that when a newspaper reporter called recently to interview Dr. William Wirt at his camp in Gary, Ind., he asked Wirt if he could use his telephone. Assent being given, he was shown into a closet and when he turned the light on in there, he saw a pile of silver shirts, the uniform of a Fascist order that is attempted to be built up in the country at this time. I suggested to the President that it might be well to have an investigation made of this matter."

It would have been more interesting if Ickes had given the name of the reporter so that he could testify under oath to the facts. The Silver Shirts was a screwball organization, founded by William Dudley Pelley, who once wrote an article for a magazine in which he claimed that he died, had a conversation with God, and returned to life. I do not have the article before me, but my recollection after all these years is that his conversation lasted two or three minutes, after which he wrote the aforesaid magazine article. Pelley has been trying to make a living out of it for many years.

To accuse William Wirt of being a Silver Shirt, back in 1934 or 1935, was to say that he was a screwball, a Fascist, a Nazi, a fool. He was none of these, although his attempt to cure the New Deal of fallacy seemed quixotic. And actually what was his crime?

Dr. William Wirt, an educator of Gary, Ind., as far back as April 1934 told the story which is unfolding slowly before this nation today. He went to a dinner party at the home of Alice Barrows. Among those present were: Robert Bruere, chairman of the Textile Code Advisory Committee; David Cushman Coyle, of the Public Works Administration; Hildegarde Kneeland and Mary Taylor, Department of Agriculture economists; Alice Barrows, of the Education Bureau at the Interior Department, and Lawrence Todd, representative of the Soviet news agency.

Wirt said:

"Miss Kneeland said that Tugwell (Rexford Guy) said: 'If we begin to plan nationally we must change once and for all our statutes and Constitution'."

He reported that Lawrence Todd said:

"We believe we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape it.

"We all thing that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution. We believe we can keep him there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin."

It is not clear who this Stalin was to be but there were several aspirants.

Harold Ickes's reference to Dr. Wirt is a reminder of this heroic pedagogue who spoke out in 1934. He was smeared even as though he were a Nazi. He was laughed at and ridiculed and humiliated until he died of it. But we now know that Dr. William A. Wirt told the truth at the very beginning of an unbelievable page of history. He was prophetic.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

BERMUDA—(INS) — The world may go to pot, assuming it has not already reached that millenium, but, by gosh, the amenities will be observed to the end.

The Big Three were greeted with a show of proper protocol and regimented hospitality that sorely puzzled an impatient bystander who often wonders why there should be so many ramifications to peace-making. Peace, it has always seemed to me, is a handshake. But the years have fantastically complicated the handshake into a 39-story glass building in New York, a 5-tongued assembly hall that makes the Roxy look like a nickelodeon, and heavily staged meetings of accord such as the Bermuda conference.

Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel were here to lay their cards on the table, and maybe pound on it a bit, and let each other know exactly what the score is. They could have accomplished whatever they have accomplished in comparatively few minutes or hours, and maybe even by telephone. But here protocol separated them much more than it brought them together.

For example, it was felt necessary by the French to deny that Laniel had spoken "other than informally" to Churchill, though they were sitting around their suites in the same golf club for a full day before Eisenhower arrived. So what if they did talk? That's why they were here, isn't it?

The Big Three didn't know exactly what they were going to talk about, once here. But for days and probably weeks they knew exactly which would be the host nation at luncheon and dinner on December 5, 6, and 7. Solemnly, the luncheon and dinner arrangements were read to us as a "briefing" on the day before Eisenhower took off from Washington.

The Americans entertain the French at luncheon Saturday . . . The British play host to the Americans at dinner on Saturday night . . . the Americans have the British in for lunch Sunday and the French dine the British Sunday night. Then the French come back Monday to have the Americans to lunch . . . and so forth.

Mind you, all the food came out of the same kitchen, and it's a somewhat uninspired one, if memory serves. There must have been sameness to it that reminded the more sensitive peace-makers that there is a sameness to international conferences—in that tradition dating back to the Queen of Sheba making it seldom possible for the parties to the peace-making to get together.

Eisenhower, who let it be known in advance that he didn't expect to sit around Bermuda shadow-boxing interminably, must have winced through many of the iron-clad restrictions diplomacy has placed on the direct approach. It was not considered proper, for instance, for him to see either Churchill or Laniel—except to say hello at the bottom of the plane steps—until four and a half hours after his arrival. Seems that there first had to be a meeting of the minds on a slightly lower level. Dulles, Eden and Bidault had to confer. And there was never any chance for Ike to take off his shoes and sit down with the others on the porch, for a little man-to-man talk.

Peace—it's wonderful. True. But it's also complicated.

There was a contradictory show of military strength surrounding the arrival of each peacemaker. Full dress and stiff as starch.

First to greet each man was Sir Alexander Hood, utterly magnificent in ceremonial uniform, cape, sword, helmet. A pace behind him stood the commanding officers of the military forces represented. These included the Royal Welch Fusiliers with a 45-piece band, the Royal Navy, the U. S. Navy, Marines and Air Force. Ike got a special treatment, being the only head of state present. There was a 26-man Air Force honor guard for him to review. Churchill barely made it through a shorter review. He appeared ready to fall on two occasions.

"Upon completion of the inspection of troops, local and visiting dignitaries will be presented," read the official program. And they were, in all their glory.

And it didn't seem to occur to any of them that the men they were honoring had only the foggiest notion what in blue blazes they were here for, except to further the general cause of peace. All the principals wished, perhaps, was that peace could be as mathematically planned as these brassy appurtenances that do so much to impede it.

Farming The Letter Boxes

The long shadow of the 1954 elections has patterned the gimmick disposal of the office-locked politicians.

Last November the Democratic legislative jets broke the Republican sound-off barrier.

We already discern the shape of things to be postponed. Truman fixed Korea so it is a debacle built for two. No matter what Ike claims there isn't enough Korea peace for export.

The farm program is a question of rotated crops. All the GOP has to do is stuff the South's cotton harvest into the northern farmer's ears.

Republican economy lowbridged the power program and shortened the outdoor movie season.

The Democrats are figuring on parity for succotash indivisible and triumphant. They also promise to put the liver pill ads back on the barns.

There were so many boots in 1953 the Democrats can pull the trigger with both eyes closed and still get a sharpshooter's medal.

On the other gauntlet the GOP will play the Commie-in-government business to the hilt like a sword-swallower with a butter knife.

Stamp Sales Indicate Two Areas Devoid Of Professional Gambling

WASHINGTON, Dec. (AP)—Records made public by the Internal Revenue Service on the sale of gamblers' occupation tax stamps recently would seem to indicate that two areas in the United States and the Hawaiian Islands are completely devoid of professional gambling.

Revenue districts where there were no sales at all in fiscal 1953 were Lower Manhattan in New York City, Honolulu, and Augusta, Maine.

The Augusta district covers the whole state of Maine. All of the Hawaiian Islands are included in the Honolulu office.

On the other hand, the record of gamblers' stamp sales from July 1, 1952 through June 30, 1953, indicated that the state of Washington and the territory of Alaska were the most openly gambling-minded of the nation's 64 revenue districts. The revenue service report on sales of the $50-a-year wagering stamps said 3,725 of the stamps were sold in fiscal 1953 in the Seattle district which takes in the state of Washington and Alaska.

Four other districts sold more than 1,000 stamps during the year. These were Chicago, Springfield, Ill. and Indianapolis.

Congress first ordered professional gamblers to buy the stamps two years ago, mainly as a result of the Senate Crime Committee hearings which depicted organized gambling as being a main highway to crime. All persons who make their living from gambling or engage in it for profit are supposed to buy the stamp, giving the revenue service their name, address, place of business and business records.

In addition to the occupation stamp, Congress also directed gamblers to pay an excise tax of 10 per cent of their total take. This amounted to only $4,371,869 in fiscal 1952 when the tax was operative only part of the year. But, the revenue report said, excise gambling collections more than doubled in fiscal 1953, amounting to $9,528,469. There was no comparison with the year before for the number of gambling stamps sold but the dollar take from the gambling stamps, at $973,729 for fiscal 1953 was virtually unchanged from fiscal 1952.

Gambling stamp sales by revenue districts included:

Baltimore and the District of Columbia, 32; Pittsburgh (Western Pennsylvania), 203; Parkersburg, W. Va., 447; Richmond, Va., 50; Nashville, Tenn., 128.

Wee Scottie Granted Stay Of Execution

MEDIA, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP) — Susie, a wee Scottie with a lilt in her eye, was granted a stay of execution yesterday.

Susie sat quietly in Delaware County Court for more than an hour while Judge E. Leroy Van Roden deliberated whether the little black dog was to live or die.

The question came to court because of her mistress' will. Mrs. Margerette Holmes Robinson, when she died last Oct. 6, left a final testament directing that Susie be disposed of because of Mrs. Robinson's fear the dog might not continue to have a good home.

Yesterday, Judge Van Roden ruled that, in his opinion, Mrs. Robinson had not intended to cut short her dog's life.

He said he believed Mrs. Robinson, when she wrote her will, had expected to live many more years and that she feared Susie would be quite old at the time of her mistress' death. Susie now is only six.

Mrs. Edith Mannist, who served as Mrs. Robinson's housekeeper, told the court she had grown attached to Susie and promised the dog would always be well provided for.

Judge Van Roden looked at Susie. Then he looked at Mrs. Mannist.

"The dog's life is spared," said the jurist.

Susie stood up on the chair where she had been placed. And she wagged her tail as though she knew what was happening.

Censor Board May Appeal Judge's Upset Of Film Ban

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Sidney Traub, chairman of the State Motion Picture Censor Board, expressed confidence today that Judge Herman M. Moser had opened a door to the first review of the law by the Court of Appeals.

Traub said the board hadn't met yet to decide if it will ask the attorney general if it could appeal Judge Moser's reversing the ban on "The Moon is Blue."

But he felt sure "we are going to ask him."

Traub said the board had asked the attorney general, Edward Rollins, on an earlier reversal of another film ban whether it could ask the state Court of Appeals for a review.

"Rollins held that the board lacked such right," Traub reported, "that the wording of the statute was such that the Baltimore city court was the court of last resort for film appeals.

"In 'The Moon is Blue,' however, Judge Moser limits the board to the censorship of indecent and obscene films. Personally, I feel that part of his decision is appealable.

"Whether the attorney general will so rule, I don't know. Certainly we ought to ask him."

Ike's Address Draws Capacity Crowd To U.N.

Mrs. Gaither Martin Heads Presbyterian Association

Officers were elected and awards presented at the meeting of the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church Monday in the Men's Bible Class room.

Mrs. Gaither L. Martin was elected president; Mrs. W. A. Britt vice president; Mrs. Edward D. Finan, recording secretary; Mrs. Luther Hutter Sr., corresponding secretary and publicity chairman and Mrs. R. O. McCullough, treasurer.

Announcement of the annual meeting of the association in January was made by Mrs. E. W. Athey. At that time officers are to be installed and a memorial service held.

A first place award was made to the Spangler-Haenftling Circle for the largest attendance during the year and second award to the Robinson-Liken Circle.

The meeting opened with the group singing, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William B. Ludman. Mrs. Albert Macy conducted the devotionals which were in keeping with the Christmas season. Mrs. John A. Loar gave a reading, "Amol and the Night Visitors," after which "We Three Kings" was sung and benediction given. Members of the Winsheimer-Ludman Circle were hostesses, and carried out the Christmas theme in the decorations. Fifty-six attended.

Newcomers Pack Yule Contributions

A Yule-time basket of canned goods and a box of toys were collected at the annual Christmas party of the Newcomers Club, which was held in the form of a turkey dinner with the husbands of members as guests.

It was served in the private dining room of Diamond's Restaurant, North Mechanic Street, Saturday evening. The tables were decorated with Christmas greens and tall red candles. Covers were laid for 76.

Whether you wish to round out your hips or slim and streamline them, here's just what you need!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Everyone needs exercise. Exercise keeps the body youthful in tone, lithe in movement and co-ordinated for smooth grace and balance. When the figure is perfect, a general exercise is all that is needed. But when proportions are not in line, special exercises to reduce over-developed areas or to increase underdeveloped ones are indicated.

Strange as it may seem, the same exercises often can be used to attain opposite goals. The secret lies in how they are performed. When you wish to develop, perform the exercises slowly—very slowly—and with as much tension as you can command. Furthermore, perform the exercise fewer times per session or per day than in reducing. For the latter carry out an exercise as rapidly and rhythmically as possible and as many times as you can without becoming over-tired or feeling strain.

For Perfect Hips

Let's take the hip problem, for example. The ideal is to have hips that are equal to or not more than one inch larger than the bust. Some exceptionally tall figures can carry a two-inch larger measurement and still give the impression of being almost perfect.

To reduce, there is no better exercise than to sit on the floor, arms extended straight out from the shoulders and "hip walk" across the room, time and time again as fast as you can. This exercise is performed by raising one hip and moving it forward, then raising the other and moving it ahead.

Slow or Fast

Another excellent hip reducer is this: Stand in an open doorway with your right elbow bent and your right hand placed against the door frome for support. Now swing your right leg forward, then backward. Swing high, hard and as fast as you can, starting out with twelve kicks a day and tripling the number as soon as you feel able to do so without strain. Then turn around and give your left leg the same workout.

If you are among the small minority of women who wish to round out and increase hip measurements, perform the same exercises. But take only one twelve-step hip walk per day. Do the kicking exercises only a dozen times. And when performing either of these exercises move slowly, tensing your muscles. Hold them tense with each step or kick. Then relax before taking the next. Follow with another tensing and hold again.

You can have the figure you want if you want it enough to work for it!

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS OFFER

A free copy of "Your Beauty Diet" will be sent to readers who send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to SECRETS OF CHARM in care of this newspaper. This clipping must accompany your request.

Tomorrow: Reader - requested special exercises.

Secret Practice

Notice that once again we are supposed to share our top atomic secrets with our allies. If I was curator of that zoo I wouldn't tell 'em which end was front on a ferry-boat.

I got into a lot of griefness about 20 years ago by saying something about the good neighbor policy. I said the only good neighbor was a vacant lot.

Now, they proved the danagerous spots of the world are the vacant places. And that the only good neighbor is an overcrowded boarding house.

Nevertheloose, I still claim we should clam up on our secrets. I would tell 'em nothing. And charge 'em full rates.

It was England that okayed the scientists who came over here and stole everything. They didn't take the kitchen stove. But they robbed the oven.

The best scientist in England was a Commie spyster. Once he got into Canada it was as easy as breaking a yolk.

They told him everything. He relayed it like it was a bucket in a flooded cellar.

He was as guilty as a cat spitting feathers. Now our allies want to do it all over again. How silly can you get?

The secret of silk leaked out in 552 A. D., when two Persian monks, visiting China, concealed silkworms' eggs and mulberry leaves in a hollow staff and smuggled them into their own country.

Whether you wish to round out your hips or slim and streamline them, here's just what you need!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Everyone needs exercise. Exercise keeps the body youthful in tone, lithe in movement and coordinated for smooth grace and balance. When the figure is perfect, a general exercise is all that is needed. But when proportions are not in line, special exercises to reduce over-developed areas or to increase underdeveloped ones are indicated.

Strange as it may seem, the same exercises often can be used to attain opposite goals. The secret lies in how they are performed. When you wish to develop, perform the exercises slowly—very slowly—and with as much tension as you can command. Furthermore, perform the exercise fewer times per session or per day than in reducing. For the latter carry out an exercise as rapidly and rhythmically as possible and as many times as you can without becoming over-tired or feeling strain.

For Perfect Hips

Let's take the hip problem, for example. The ideal is to have hips that are equal to or not more than one inch larger than the bust. Some exceptionally tall figures can carry a two-inch larger measurement and still give the impression of being almost perfect.

To reduce, there is no better exercise than to sit on the floor, arms extended straight out from the shoulders and "hip walk" across the room, time and time again as fast as you can. This exercise is performed by raising one hip and moving it forward, then raising the other and moving it ahead.

Slow or Fast

Another excellent hip reducer is this: Stand in an open doorway with your right elbow bent and your right hand placed against the door frome for support. Now swing your right leg forward, then backward. Swing high, hard and as fast as you can, starting out with twelve kicks a day and tripling the number as soon as you feel able to do so without strain. Then turn around and give your left leg the same workout.

If you are among the small minority of women who wish to round out and increase hip measurements, perform the same exercises. But take only one twelve-step hip walk per day. Do the kicking exercises only a dozen times. And when performing either of these exercises move slowly, tensing your muscles. Hold them tense with each step or kick. Then relax before taking the next. Follow with another tensing and hold again.

You can have the figure you want if you want it enough to work for it!

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS OFFER

A free copy of "Your Beauty Diet" will be sent to readers who send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to SECRETS OF CHARM in care of this newspaper. This clipping must accompany your request.

Tomorrow: Reader-requested special exercises.

Secret Practice

Notice that once again we are supposed to share our top atomic secrets with our allies. If I was curator of that zoo I wouldn't tell 'em which end was front on a ferry-boat.

I got into a lot of griefness about 20 years ago by saying something about the good neighbor policy. I said the only good neighbor was a vacant lot.

Now, they proved the danagerous spots of the world are the vacant places. And that the only good neighbor is an overcrowded boarding house.

Nevertheloose, I still claim we should clam up on our secrets. I would tell 'em nothing. And charge 'em full rates.

It was England that okayed the scientists who came over here and stole everything. They didn't take the kitchen stove. But they robbed the oven.

The best scientist in England was a Commie spyster. Once he got into Canada it was as easy as breaking a yolk.

They told him everything. He relayed it like it was a bucket in a flooded cellar.

He was as guilty as a cat spitting feathers. Now our allies want to do it all over again. How silly can you get?

Lack Of Interest In Science Shown By High Schoolers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—This is a scientific age we live in—and yet high school youngsters are showing a surprising lack of interest in science.

The National Science Teachers Assn. today glumly announced the results of a poll of 425 teachers in schools with an enrollment of 326,000.

Everywhere the report was the same:

Around 75 per cent of students in the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th grades are taking science. Less than a third of the students continue to take science in the 11th and 12th grades.

Robert H. Carleton, executive secretary of the association and himself a high school science teacher for 18 years in Ohio and New Jersey, puts it this way:

"Three-fourths of the questions a child asks deal with science—about the flowers, the trees, the wind. We have successfully dulled the edges of their curiosity by the time they reach the end of their high school careers."

Carleton thinks there are a number of ways to sharpen these edges.

Take the textbooks.

"It seems as if they always begin with James Watt and his steam engine," he said. "Why, even the railroads are getting rid of the steam engine now.

"How about talking about hot rods, and what makes them run?

You'd soon be dealing with the principles of the combustion engine, and then you could work Watts in, and his historical importance.

"Why are all the latest scientific developments in the last chapter of the book? I'd like to see physics books start right out with the atomic bomb."

Carleton said he doesn't think enough use has been made of the laboratory.

"Too many experiments aren't experiments at all," he said. "The kids go through the motions until they produce a certain color or a certain odor. I think they should be given real problems—and be allowed to work them out as best they can."

Boonsboro's Purchase Of Water System Voted

BOONSBORO, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—The mayor and council recommended today that the city buy the town's water supply system and expand it.

The privately owned system has been unable to supply enough water from one spring during the recent dry spell. The high school and elementary school with about 1,300 students had to close last Wednesday. They have resumed classes.

The mayor and council recommended the town buy the system from the Boonsboro Water Co. for $45,000. The price is agreeable to the company. However, the taxpayers will have to vote on the proposal at a special election.

Pet Deer Is Kept In House During Hunting Season

NORTH EAST, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—A 7-month-old deer has been moved in to live with Mrs. Beatrice Lewis and her family.

It's only for this week while the Maryland deer hunting season lasts.

Her son found the deer shortly after it was born and carried him home. He's been a pet ever since, but allowed to come and go in the nearby Elk State Forest.

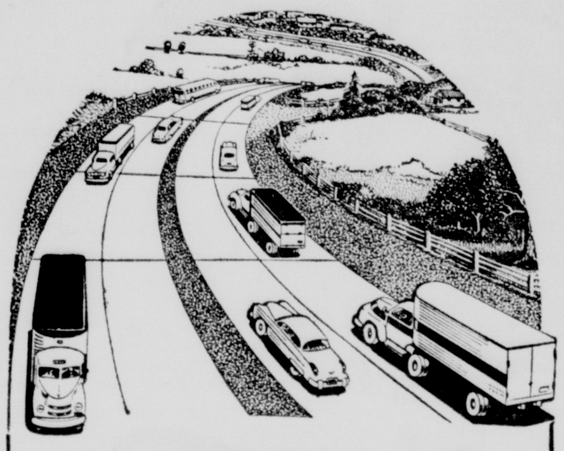
With the arrival of the gunners yesterday, Mrs. Lewis brought the animal into the house and is going to keep him "locked up" until after Saturday. So far he's "behaved rather well" and sleeps in the kitchen.

His food preferences are beef stew, hot dogs and pickles.

Soviet Radio Mentions Big 3's Communique

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP) — The first mention of the Big Three communique on the Bermuda conference from the Moscow radio tonight said the communique "contains a hint on the differences which exist between the participants: The attitude of France toward the European Defense Community."

The brief comment was in a broadcast Tass dispatch relayed to Soviet newspapers under a New York dateline.



Tomorrow's better roads will be CONCRETE

America is undertaking her greatest highway improvement program. Many new roads must be built and older roads modernized to carry the faster, heavier and greatly increased traffic of today—and tomorrow.

The first step to a safe and adequate system is to provide longer sight distances, wider curves and lower grades—and to use divided lanes where traffic volume is heavy. The second is to build with the safest, most economical and durable pavement. That's concrete!

Concrete is skid-resistant, wet or dry, and reflects more light at night. It is moderate in first cost, requires less maintenance and has a life expectancy twice that of the next most durable pavement commonly built.

You pay for your roads, Mr. Taxpayer. Insist on the safety, durability and low annual cost of concrete.

Bids Are Opened On Last Stretch Of New Baltimore National Pike

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Bids were opened today for building the last link in the conversion of U. S. 40 into a modern super-highway between Baltimore and Frederick.

If all the contractors involved make good on advance guarantees, the new Baltimore National Pike will be open to the east edge of Frederick by next Oct. 24.

Maryland, at the end of 19 years of building, will have replaced perhaps the worst and yet one of the busiest stretches on U. S. 40 in its trans-continental length from San Francisco to Atlantic City.

You won't have to go roller coastering anymore over the "Seven Sisters," seven tantalizing hills between Ridgeville and New Market.

F. P. Asher and Sons Inc. of Annapolis submitted today's apparent low bid of $1,082,325.

The offers were on the building of a 2.6-mile stretch westward from the State Route 27 interchange near Ridgeville.

When the final job gets started, contractors will be working on seven projects—almost five million dollars worth—to close the 13 mile gap from just east of Ridgeville to the Monocacy River at the east edge of Frederick.

All of this work has been put under contract since last April and the first job was started May 29.

The 13 miles was broken up into seven projects so the whole stretch could be finished in a hurry.

Other segments of the 25 miles from the Baltimore city limits to the present dual highway terminus east of Ridgeville took as long as two years to build.

It took 17 years altogether to get from Baltimore to Ridgeville, but there was a long hiatus during World War II.

Maryland started building the super-highway west to Frederick in 1935. Three contracts let on Christmas Eve of that year were finished in the fall of 1937, but consisted only of 3.5 miles of grading and the bridge across the Patapsco River five miles west of the Baltimore City limits.

Highway funds came in smaller chunks in those years and it was not until the summer of 1938 that the first paving work started.

In the meantime, another 3.5 miles was built west to Pine Orchard and when it was finished in October of 1939 the new highway carried its first traffic between Rolling Road and Pine Orchard. Only part of the seven miles was dual highway. The other part consisted of only one pair of lanes for the ultimate dual.

Work was under way on a 2.4 mile connection between Rolling Road and the Baltimore City limits when the Japs hit at Pearl Harbor. It was finished in April of 1942.

But no new contracts were let all during the war and the Baltimore National Pike went all through the hostilities as a 9.5-mile stretch west from the city line, only part of it dual highway.

It was not until March of 1948 that work was resumed. William Preston Lane Jr. had come in as governor and launched the state on a 200-million dollar highway overhaul program.

Hagerstown Gets CIO "Warning"

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 8 (AP)—The CIO has served notice on the mayor and council not to enter into any bargaining agreement for city employes with the American Federation of Labor, or any other union.

The notice was in a letter from Glenn Brayton, international representative of the CIO United Auto Workers.

"We have been informed that some AFL union claims to have approximately seven members among city employes, which is not sufficient to claim bargaining power," Brayton wrote.

Brayton then said he was "advising you not to enter into any agreement, memorandum or understanding, declaration of policy, or any other type of bargaining with any other union than one represented by the CIO."

Brayton claimed that a majority of the city employes want to be represented by the CIO.

The city has no agreement now with its approximately 200 employes. The CIO, however, has made what amounts to 11 demands and also has asked for a conference to discuss job classifications and working rules.

Numbers Operator Keeps Prison Date

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Louis Comi, 47, kept a date with Sheriff Joseph Deegan today on the steps of the penitentiary.

The sheriff turned the vending machine merchant over to prison authorities to start serving a seven-year sentence on a charge of being a numbers operator.

The sheriff and Comi agreed yesterday to meet at the prison doors. That was after official notice was received that the Supreme Court on Dec. 3 had refused to review Comi's conviction.

Comi was sentenced to the seven years on Nov. 14, 1952. The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld it and Comi tried to have the Supreme Court review it.

Comi was fined $2,000 in addition to the prison sentence.

Bids Are Opened On Last Stretch Of New Baltimore National Pike

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Bids were opened today for building the last link in the conversion of U. S. 40 into a modern super-highway between Baltimore and Frederick.

If all the contractors involved make good on advance guarantees, the new Baltimore National Pike will be open to the east edge of Frederick by next Oct. 24.

Maryland, at the end of 19 years of building, will have replaced perhaps the worst and yet one of the busiest stretches on U. S. 40 in its trans-continental length from San Francisco to Atlantic City.

You won't have to go roller coastering anymore over the "Seven Sisters," seven tantalizing hills between Ridgeville and New Market.

F. P. Asher and Sons Inc. of Annapolis submitted today's apparent low bid of $1,082,325.

The offers were on the building of a 2.6-mile stretch westward from the State Route 27 interchange near Ridgeville.

When the final job gets started, contractors will be working on seven projects—almost five million dollars worth—to close the 13 mile gap from just east of Ridgeville to the Monocacy River at the east edge of Frederick.

All of this work has been put under contract since last April and the first job was started May 29.

The 13 miles was broken up into seven projects so the whole stretch could be finished in a hurry.

Other segments of the 25 miles from the Baltimore city limits to the present dual highway terminus east of Ridgeville took as long as two years to build.

It took 17 years altogether to get from Baltimore to Ridgeville, but there was a long hiatus during World War II.

Maryland started building the super-highway west to Frederick in 1935. Three contracts let on Christmas Eve of that year were finished in the fall of 1937, but consisted only of 3.5 miles of grading and the bridge across the Patapsco River five miles west of the Baltimore City limits.

Highway funds came in smaller chunks in those years and it was not until the summer of 1938 that the first paving work started.

In the meantime, another 3.5 miles was built west to Pine Orchard and when it was finished in October of 1939 the new highway carried its first traffic between Rolling Road and Pine Orchard. Only part of the seven miles was dual highway. The other part consisted of only one pair of lanes for the ultimate dual.

Work was under way on a 2.4 mile connection between Rolling Road and the Baltimore City limits when the Japs hit at Pearl Harbor. It was finished in April of 1942.

But no new contracts were let all during the war and the Baltimore National Pike went all through the hostilities as a 9.5-mile stretch west from the city line, only part of it dual highway.

Rockwood Man Shoots Woman, Takes Own Life

A former Somerset County (Pa.) resident and father of two small children wounded a 27-year-old woman and then fired a fatal shotgun blast into his own head late Monday at Elyria, Ohio.

Dead is Kenneth Miner, 31, who went to Ohio from Rockwood a year ago.

Investigators gave this version of the shooting in the parking lot of the General Motors plant where both were employed:

Miss Alta Lee Pugh reported for work and Miner asked to speak to her. When she refused, he went to his car, produced the shotgun and fired at a range of 60 feet.

Miss Pugh was hit in the right shoulder and back.

Loading the single barrel weapon, Miner fired at her again but missed. Reloading and firing for the third time, he took his own life.

According to Miss Pugh, she stopped dating Miner when she heard he was married. The dead man's wife was listed as Mrs. Dorothy Miner.

So far, police have been unable to locate Miner's family. His body was taken to Connellsville (Pa.) for burial.

Other recipients will be Mayor Frank Lastner of Greenbelt, Mayor Herber W. Reichelt of Mt. Rainier and Mayor Joseph L. Mathias Sr. of Westminster.

Gov. McKeldin will accept the National Safety Council's award to the state for outstanding achievement in public information. The citation is the second annual award in a row.

CD Rescue Truck Released To County

William G. Barger, director of the Civil Defense program in Allegany County, has presented a release from the Maryland CD Committee to William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, authorizing the use of the new rescue truck for county emergencies.

Other present when the release was given to Lemmert were James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners; J. The truck, which is equipped to handle emergencies of all types, cost in excess of $9,000, county officials said.

Christmas Seals Bring $140,013

Dr. Russell A. Nelson, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, reports $140,013.44 was raised in the state between the opening day of the 1953 Christmas Seal sale and December 1.

This is an increase of $40.81 over the same period of last year and of this total $77,472.13 has been raised by local associations in the counties.

According to Dr. Nelson, 94 per cent of all money brought in by sale of the Christmas Seals is used exclusively for tuberculosis work in the state. The remaining six per cent goes to support the National Tuberculosis Association.

Thus Marylanders who purchase Christmas Seals are not only lending their individual support to the tuberculosis control program of the state organization and its affiliated county associations, but are making a personal investment in the health of their community.

Rockwood Man Shoots Woman, Takes Own Life

A former Somerset County (Pa.) resident and father of two small children wounded a 27-year-old woman and then fired a fatal shotgun blast into his own head late Monday at Elyria, Ohio.

Dead is Kenneth Miner, 31, who went to Ohio from Rockwood a year ago.

Investigators gave this version of the shooting in the parking lot of the General Motors plant where both were employed:

Miss Alta Lee Pugh reported for work and Miner asked to speak to her. When she refused, he went to his car, produced the shotgun and fired at a range of 60 feet.

Miss Pugh was hit in the right shoulder and back.

Loading the single barrel weapon, Miner fired at her again but missed. Reloading and firing for the third time, he took his own life.

According to Miss Pugh, she stopped dating Miner when she heard he was married. The dead man's wife was listed as Mrs. Dorothy Miner.

So far, police have been unable to locate Miner's family. His body was taken to Connellsville (Pa.) for burial.

Fort Hill Band Is Equipped By Adult Group

Five persons in that year organized a Band Parents Association for the Pennsylvania Avenue High School Band, with the group continuing its affiliation when the high school was moved to Fort Hill. Now operating under the name of the Fort Hill Band Parents Association, the organiaztion is open to the parents of any student who is a member of the Fort Hill music group or the parents of students in school which "feeds" pupils to Fort Hill.

Now approximately 400-strong in membership, the original five members were Mr. and Mrs. H. Clifford Spiker, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Amtower and Raymond Lapp.

Membership Changes

The organization is flexible in that there is a constant turnover in membership, the parents dropping out as their children graduate, and new members being added as students become members of either the junior or senior school organizations.

Officers of the parents association are elected in June and assume their positions at the opening of the school year. Rules of the organization require only four meetings a school-year, these being held after the football season.

The officers serve without remuneration and all profits realized from the operation of the concessions stands beneath the Fort Hill Stadium are used only for outfitting the band and assisting it in its various activities and functions.

The Fort Hill group has been termed unique by out-of-state school band directors since the local unit operates under a strict "hands-off" policy. Practically all other similar organizations in some way or other try and influence the selection of band members, the director or band activities. In fact, the formation of such groups are usually frowned on by school band directors due to the difficulties which often follow.

Third Set Of Uniforms

The new uniforms of the Fort Hill Band were purchased by the parent's group at a cost of approximately $5,000—the third set which they have furnished since organizing. The parents have also purchased large instruments which the band might otherwise be without and has also financed the construction of dressing rooms for the boys and girl members of the school unit.

An unusual system of dressing the band members has also been worked out by the "booster" group—one which has proved of great value in helping keep the uniforms clean. Members must report to the separate dressing rooms for their uniforms, which are kept in plastic bags, each of which carries an identifying number. This has not only proved an aid in keeping the uniforms clean, but has also been helpful in keeping parts from being lost.

The principal source of income is, of course, the stadium concession stand. A new refreshment counter was erected this year at a cost of $3,700, all of which was paid for by the Band Parents Association. The profits from these stands show a small increase each year, officers claim, adding that new ones will be built when funds are available.

The demand for the drinks and other refreshments sold in the stands has always been great and it is a difficult problem to estimate how much food and candy should be ordered for the days and nights when the stands are open. The preliminary work for this starts at approximately 6 a.m. on the days when football games are played.

The first concession stand was simply a tub of iced tonic buried in the dirt under the stadium and homemade candy. From 1938, the year after the stadium opened for athletic events, the Band Parents have constantly enlarged and improved their working quarters. On Thanksgiving Day, the working crew numbered in excess of 40 members. Eventually, it is hoped that they will have permanent working stands on both sides of the football field.

Chartered solely to support the Fort Hill Band, the group also supports the band on all its trips and aids financially in taking care of the necessary hotel and bus expenses. The organization also furnishes two chaperones on each bus making a trip.

Leonard E. Adams is only the sixth president of the club since organization. Other presidents were Friend Rockwell, E. E. Alexander, Edgar Patterson, James Smith and Perry Ambrose.

Adams was elected to his position even though his daughter, Miss Ann Catherine Adams, graduated last June.

Other officers are Anna Alexander, first vice president; Lewis Ayers, second vice president; Laura Shumaker, secretary, and Mrs. Adams, treasurer.

Ridgeley Senior Play Postponed Again

Illness of a second member of the cast in Ridgeley High School's senior class play, "The Atomic Blonde," has caused postponement of the comedy until next Monday, December 14, at 1 and 8 p. m.

Willis Baker is the second player to become ill, Carl Jewell being the first.

Mine Opening Under Road Is Approved

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has announced an agreement will be made with the Wolford Coal Company of Frostburg to make an opening under the Slabtown Road near Mt. Savage for a new mining operation.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said Harry Wolford Sr., president of the firm, had inquired about the matter several weeks ago. Chapman said that about 15 years ago a mine opening was started beneath the road but the project was abandoned.

Under terms of the agreement, the county will issue a permit for the mine opening with the provision that the roadbed be protected by a system of steel beams or supports placed on a concrete block foundation. The use of wooden beams is not practical as in later years they would decay and the road would probably cave in when heavy traffic passed overhead.

It was reported at the board's meeting that the Wolford firm plans to drive an opening under the road and thence into the side of the adjacent mountain. The deep mining operation would eventually employ about 50 men, it was added.

Comprising the coal field to be mined is one tract of about 1,300 acres and another of 300 acres. The coal is part of the Bakertown seam.

Byrus Will Speak

Robert C. Byrus, director of the Fire Extension Service of the University of Maryland, will speak at the Lions Club meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at the Central YMCA. He will be introduced by Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

Weber Sparks Sentinels To 71-59 Victory

Gene Gets Ten Goals, 23 Points As Locals Defeat Hagerstown

BY TED TROXELL

Shooting field goals with amazing accuracy, Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels launched their 1953-54 basketball campaign by downing the Hagerstown Hubs, 71-59, in the friendly confines of the spacious Fort Hill gym, last night.

The Sentinels fired 60 times from the floor, connecting 27 times, for an almost unbelievable percentage of .450, while the charges of Mel Henry had an "off night", hitting on only 20 of 74 tries for a below-par percentage of .270.

First Five Shots Hit

As the game got underway, it was apparent that the fans were in for a good one, as the first five shots of the game found their way to the basket.

Midway in the first period, a set shot by Anderson gave the Hubs the lead, but Jack Hann countered with a jump shot, and after taking a 10-9 lead, the Sentinel five was never headed.

Gene Weber, rangy Hilltopper forward, was the offensive gun for the Fort Hillians, as he potted ten field goals, five in each half, in seventeen attempts. Many of his shots bordered on the sensational side.

Weber ended up as the leading point producer for the evening as his three foul conversions, in addition to the ten field goals, gave him a grand total of 23 points. Bob Brant, Sentinel pivot ace was the runnerup for the Scarlet and White quint, scoring 18 markers on seven field goals in 12 attempts, and four fouls.

Melzer Stands Out

Jack Melzer was the lone bright spot in the Hub lineup, accounting for 20 of his teams markers, on eight of 21 field goals and four fouls. Anderson took second honors with 13 tallies to his credit.

Four cagers exited from the game via the personal foul route, with Hewitt, Hughes, and Renner leaving from the Hubs, and Billy Kerns from the Sentinels.

Gene Gets Ten Goals, 23 Points As Locals Defeat Hagerstown

BY TED TROXELL

Shooting field goals with amazing accuracy, Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels launched their 1953-54 basketball campaign by downing the Hagerstown Hubs, 71-59, in the friendly confines of the spacious Fort Hill gym, last night.

The Sentinels fired 60 times from the floor, connecting 27 times, for an almost unbelievable percentage of .450, while the charges of Mel Henry had an "off night", hitting on only 20 of 74 tries for a below-par percentage of .270.

First Five Shots Hit

As the game got underway, it was apparent that the fans were in for a good one, as the first five shots of the game found their way to the basket.

Midway in the first period, a set shot by Anderson gave the Hubs the lead, but Jack Hann countered with a jump shot, and after taking a 10-9 lead, the Sentinel five was never headed.

Gene Weber, rangy Hilltopper forward, was the offensive gun for the Fort Hillians, as he potted ten field goals, five in each half, in seventeen attempts. Many of his shots bordered on the sensational side.

Weber ended up as the leading point producer for the evening as his three foul conversions, in addition to the ten field goals, gave him a grand total of 23 points. Bob Brant, Sentinel pivot ace was the runnerup for the Scarlet and White quint, scoring 18 markers on seven field goals in 12 attempts, and four fouls.

Melzer Stands Out

Jack Melzer was the lone bright spot in the Hub lineup, accounting for 20 of his teams markers, on eight of 21 field goals and four fouls. Anderson took second honors with 13 tallies to his credit.

Four cagers exited from the game via the personal foul route, with Hewitt, Hughes, and Renner leaving from the Hubs, and Billy Kerns from the Sentinels.

Commissioner Frick Rules Terry Belongs To Yankees

Nats Get McDermott, Umphlett For Jensen; Chisox Buy Michaels

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston in a major three-man deal today, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for lefthanded pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington - Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings.

Chisox Get Michaels

The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, the youngster from Chelsea, Okla. who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predates his signing a contract with Omaha (St. Louis Farm in the Western League).

Terry is a right handed pitcher.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at tomorrow's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. (EST) at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director.

Ask Pay Increases

The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,200 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, Sept. 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16 player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. The players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the Sept. 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no such action.

Frick reiterated today, as he said yesterday, the players were present and voted "yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Act On Night Ball

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "getaway night" (final game of a series) if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

Pompee Flattens King In Second

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Yolande Pompee, Trinidad's unemployed light heavyweight, stepped into the middleweight ranks in search of a fight tonight and knocked out Jimmy King of Buffalo in 29 seconds of the second round.

Pompee, world's fourth ranked light heavy, caught the Buffalo Negro with a full right to the jaw and King went to the canvas non stop.

King, one-time sparring partner for Sugar Ray Robinson, has lived in Paris for three years.

Pompee hasn't found work in the light heavy division since spring and resorted to the middleweights only to make a little money. He now stands a fair chance of getting a fight in London in March against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight titleholder. London promoter Jack Solomons hopes to match the winner of that fight against Bobo Olson, world middleweight champion.

Top Women's Teams Will Meet Tonight

Frostburg American Legion will play host to Clingerman's and the Hi Dee Club will visit the Woodmen of the World in tonight's top matches in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

These two matches involve four of the five leading teams in the county race.

Frostburg Legion (17-7) holds the runner-up spot, two full games back of the front-running Golden Nugget (19-5). Hi Dee Club, Clingerman's and W.O.W. are deadlocked for fourth place (15-9), four games off the pace.

Cas Taylor's shoots it out with Golden Nugget at Frostburg, Pocahontas is at Kelly Tavern and Purple Heart visits Cresaptown Firemen's Club in other matches on tap for tonight.

Fort Hill, LaVale, the Falcons, and the Eagles earned wins in the Western Maryland League's fourth smallbore rifle match held Sunday afternoon at Bowman's Addition and Oakland.

On the local range, Fort Hill rolled over Cumberland, 1134 to 1039, and LaVale stopped Frostburg, 1105 to 791. The undefeated Fort Hill crew was headed by Frank Simpson's score of 289 points. Bill Whitson topped the LaVale winners also with a tally of 289.

At the Oakland Armory range, the Falcons handed Hercules riflemen their first defeat of the season, 1117 to 1105. Wilson White's 282 paced the victors. An individual tally of 292 by Jim Spitznogle was Hercules' best and placed high for the meet.

Also at Oakland, the Eagles posted 1113 to take an Avilton forfeit. Ed Michael's 285 markup headed the winners.

The fifth any-sight match in the four position schedule will be held next Sunday with teams in action at both ranges.

Turner To Fight Rocky Castellani

Middleweights Meet In Cleveland Arena

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8 (AP)—Rocky Castellani and Gil Turner, each hoping to earn a crack at middleweight champion Bobo Olson, meet tomorrow night in a scheduled 10-round televised bout at Cleveland Arena.

The bout will highlight the Cleveland News' 28th annual Toy Shop Fund boxing show. Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., and Tuzo Portuguez of Costa Rica will go into a 10-rounder in the 160-pound class as a co-feature.

Although Castellani is considered the No. 2 middleweight contender, Turner is a slight favorite in the betting odds. He is the No. 4 contender. British Randy Turpin, who lost recently to Olson, is No. 1 contender.

The bout tomorrow night will be carried over the Columbia Broadcasting System television network at 10 p.m., EST.

Free MINK STOLE

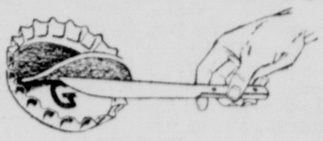
Get that Million Dollar Look From the

MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:



Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . . " Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Commissioner Frick Rules Terry Belongs To Yankees

Nats Get McDermott, Umphlett For Jensen; Chisox Buy Michaels

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston in a major three-man deal today, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for lefthanded pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington - Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings.

Chisox Get Michaels

The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, the youngster from Chelsea, Okla. who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predates his signing a contract with Omaha (St. Louis Farm in the Western League).

Terry is a right handed pitcher.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at tomorrow's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. (EST) at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director.

Ask Pay Increases

The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,200 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, Sept. 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16 player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. The players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the Sept. 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no such action.

Frick reiterated today, as he said yesterday, the players were present and voted "yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Act On Night Ball

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "getaway night" (final game of a series) if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

Pompee Flattens King In Second

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Yolande Pompee, Trinidad's unemployed light heavyweight, stepped into the middleweight ranks in search of a fight tonight and knocked out Jimmy King of Buffalo in 29 seconds of the second round.

Pompee, world's fourth ranked light heavy, caught the Buffalo Negro with a full right to the jaw and King went to the canvas non stop.

King, one-time sparring partner for Sugar Ray Robinson, has lived in Paris for three years.

Pompee hasn't found work in the light heavy division since spring and resorted to the middleweights only to make a little money. He now stands a fair chance of getting a fight in London in March against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight titleholder. London promoter Jack Solomons hopes to match the winner of that fight against Bobo Olson, world middleweight champion.

Top Women's Teams Will Meet Tonight

Frostburg American Legion will play host to Clingerman's and the Hi Dee Club will visit the Woodmen of the World in tonight's top matches in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

These two matches involve four of the five leading teams in the county race.

Frostburg Legion (17-7) holds the runner-up spot, two full games back of the front-running Golden Nugget (19-5). Hi Dee Club, Clingerman's and W.O.W. are deadlocked for fourth place (15-9), four games off the pace.

Cas Taylor's shoots it out with Golden Nugget at Frostburg, Pocahontas is at Kelly Tavern and Purple Heart visits Cresaptown Firemen's Club in other matches on tap for tonight.

Fort Hill, LaVale, the Falcons, and the Eagles earned wins in the Western Maryland League's fourth smallbore rifle match held Sunday afternoon at Bowman's Addition and Oakland.

On the local range, Fort Hill rolled over Cumberland, 1134 to 1039, and LaVale stopped Frostburg, 1105 to 791. The undefeated Fort Hill crew was headed by Frank Simpson's score of 289 points. Bill Whitson topped the LaVale winners also with a tally of 289.

At the Oakland Armory range, the Falcons handed Hercules riflemen their first defeat of the season, 1117 to 1105. Wilson White's 282 paced the victors. An individual tally of 292 by Jim Spitznogle was Hercules' best and placed high for the meet.

Also at Oakland, the Eagles posted 1113 to take an Avilton forfeit. Ed Michael's 285 markup headed the winners.

The fifth any-sight match in the four position schedule will be held next Sunday with teams in action at both ranges.

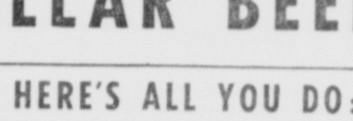
Free MINK STOLE

Get that Million Dollar Look From the MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:



Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Sgt. Patterson Dies In Crash At Marlboro

A 33-year-old Cumberland airman was killed and three companions were injured, one critically, in an automobile crash early yesterday near Upper Marlboro.

The victim, Staff Sgt. Burdett Patterson, husband of Mrs. Florence (Stafford) Patterson, Winfield Road, was stationed at Andrews Air Force Base.

Car Hits Pole

Authorities said Sgt. Patterson was killed when the car in which he was riding crashed against a power line pole. They listed the badly injured man as Airman 2-c John J. Flatt, 23, Kearny, N. J., driver of the vehicle.

Work On Flood

channel work; $25,000 for approaches to the new Potomac River Bridge to be built next year, and $305,000 as the portion of the reconstructed Wills Creek bridges properly chargeable to flood protection.

The new Valley Street bridge will cost more than the sum set aside in 1947 plans for renovation of the bridges. The low bid on the bridge is $280,694.50, and 15 per cent must be added to this sum to meet engineering costs, contingencies and rights of way.

Change Is Suggested

City officials are aware that the change in plans which call for replacing present spans with modern bridges will call for more money, but insist that the bridges should be brought up to modern standards, to meet the increased traffic loads the city's streets are carrying.

City officials for some months have realized that if present plans for the flood project are retained, more money will have to be provided to meet local obligations.

One suggestion was to substitute concrete flood walls for earth levees along the Potomac River in Ridgeley and the West Side of Cumberland.

The Corps of Engineers studied the plan and reported flood walls on the West Side would cut the city's cost for real estate by $107,000 but would cost the government $174,000 more, and that moving utilities would cost the city another $13,000. The net increase in cost would be $80,000.

Suggests Bond Issues

In Ridgeley, flood walls would save Cumberland $32,000 for real estate—and add that amount to the government's real estate cost, and there would be a net increase in Ridgeley construction costs of $598,000.

Army Engineers report they must proceed under present plans, since the substitution of walls for levees would constitute a change in plans and would have to be approved by Congress.

At Monday's council meeting, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, estimated about $598,000 more will have to be raised to complete the city's obligations in connection with the flood project.

He suggested that the city ask the General Assembly in 1955 for authorization to sell about $360,000 more bonds. The balance, about $240,000 would be requested of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Local funds now on hand are estimated to be sufficient to last through 1954 phases of the work.

Carver Teen Club To Meet Saturday

The Carver Teen Club will meet Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at Carver High School, with Mrs. Jeannetta Beckward in charge.

Robert E. Pence, director of the city recreation department, which sponsors the club, said the meeting was changed from Friday to Saturday because basketball teams will be playing out of town Friday.

This week's program will include a movie, table games, pool, social games and dancing.

Over 80 youths attended last Friday's session of the club.

Pfc. Smith has been stationed in Nancy, France, the past six months and he utilized his first leave for a trip to Germany. In the call he told his parents that he recently heard a transcription of the radio program transcribed here for NBC over a year ago, entitled "A Tribute To Cumberland."

channel work; $25,000 for approaches to the new Potomac River Bridge to be built next year, and $305,000 as the portion of the reconstructed Wills Creek bridges properly chargeable to flood protection.

The new Valley Street bridge will cost more than the sum set aside in 1947 plans for renovation of the bridges. The low bid on the bridge is $280,694.50, and 15 per cent must be added to this sum to meet engineering costs, contingencies and rights of way.

Change Is Suggested

City officials are aware that the change in plans which call for replacing present spans with modern bridges will call for more money, but insist that the bridges should be brought up to modern standards, to meet the increased traffic loads the city's streets are carrying.

City officials for some months have realized that if present plans for the flood project are retained, more money will have to be provided to meet local obligations.

One suggestion was to substitute concrete flood walls for earth levees along the Potomac River in Ridgeley and the West Side of Cumberland.

The Corps of Engineers studied the plan and reported flood walls on the West Side would cut the city's cost for real estate by $107,000 but would cost the government $174,000 more, and that moving utilities would cost the city another $13,000. The net increase in cost would be $80,000.

Suggests Bond Issues

In Ridgeley, flood walls would save Cumberland $32,000 for real estate—and add that amount to the government's real estate cost, and there would be a net increase in Ridgeley construction costs of $598,000.

Army Engineers report they must proceed under present plans, since the substitution of walls for levees would constitute a change in plans and would have to be approved by Congress.

At Monday's council meeting, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, estimated about $598,000 more will have to be raised to complete the city's obligations in connection with the flood project.

He suggested that the city ask the General Assembly in 1955 for authorization to sell about $360,000 more bonds. The balance, about $240,000 would be requested of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Local funds now on hand are estimated to be sufficient to last through 1954 phases of the work.

Commissioner Frick Rules Terry Belongs To Yankees

Nats Get McDermott, Umphlett For Jensen; Chisox Buy Michaels

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston in a major three-man deal today, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for lefthanded pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington - Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings.

Chisox Get Michaels

The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, the youngster from Chelsea, Okla. who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predates his signing a contract with Omaha (St. Louis Farm in the Western League).

Terry is a right handed pitcher.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at tomorrow's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. (EST) at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director.

Ask Pay Increases

The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,200 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, Sept. 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16 player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. The players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the Sept. 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no such action.

Frick reiterated today, as he said yesterday, the players were present and voted "yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Act On Night Ball

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "getaway night" (final game of a series) if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

Pompee Flattens King In Second

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Yolande Pompee, Trinidad's unemployed light heavyweight, stepped into the middleweight ranks in search of a fight tonight and knocked out Jimmy King of Buffalo in 29 seconds of the second round.

Pompee, world's fourth ranked light heavy, caught the Buffalo Negro with a full right to the jaw and King went to the canvas non stop.

King, one-time sparring partner for Sugar Ray Robinson, has lived in Paris for three years.

Pompee hasn't found work in the light heavy division since spring and resorted to the middleweights only to make a little money. He now stands a fair chance of getting a fight in London in March against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight titleholder. London promoter Jack Solomons hopes to match the winner of that fight against Bobo Olson, world middleweight champion.

Top Women's Teams Will Meet Tonight

Frostburg American Legion will play host to Clingerman's and the Hi Dee Club will visit the Woodmen of the World in tonight's top matches in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

These two matches involve four of the five leading teams in the county race.

Frostburg Legion (17-7) holds the runner-up spot, two full games back of the front-running Golden Nugget (19-5). Hi Dee Club, Clingerman's and W.O.W. are deadlocked for fourth place (15-9), four games off the pace.

Cas Taylor's shoots it out with Golden Nugget at Frostburg, Pocahontas is at Kelly Tavern and Purple Heart visits Cresaptown Firemen's Club in other matches on tap for tonight.

Turner To Fight Rocky Castellani

Middleweights Meet In Cleveland Arena

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8 (AP)—Rocky Castellani and Gil Turner, each hoping to earn a crack at middleweight champion Bobo Olson, meet tomorrow night in a scheduled 10-round televised bout at Cleveland Arena.

The bout will highlight the Cleveland News' 28th annual Toy Shop Fund boxing show. Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., and Tuzo Portuguez of Costa Rica will go into a 10-rounder in the 160-pound class as a co-feature.

Although Castellani is considered the No. 2 middleweight contender, Turner is a slight favorite in the betting odds. He is the No. 4 contender. British Randy Turpin, who lost recently to Olson, is No. 1 contender.

The bout tomorrow night will be carried over the Columbia Broadcasting System television network at 10 p.m., EST.

Free MINK STOLE

Get that Million Dollar Look From the

MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Commissioner Frick Rules Terry Belongs To Yankees

Nats Get McDermott, Umphlett For Jensen; Chisox Buy Michaels

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston in a major three-man deal today, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for lefthanded pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington - Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings.

Chisox Get Michaels

The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, the youngster from Chelsea, Okla. who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predates his signing a contract with Omaha (St. Louis Farm in the Western League).

Terry is a right handed pitcher.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at tomorrow's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. (EST) at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director.

Ask Pay Increases

The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,200 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, Sept. 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16 player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. The players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the Sept. 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no such action.

Frick reiterated today, as he said yesterday, the players were present and voted "yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Act On Night Ball

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "getaway night" (final game of a series) if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

Pompee Flattens King In Second

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Yolande Pompee, Trinidad's unemployed light heavyweight, stepped into the middleweight ranks in search of a fight tonight and knocked out Jimmy King of Buffalo in 29 seconds of the second round.

Pompee, world's fourth ranked light heavy, caught the Buffalo Negro with a full right to the jaw and King went to the canvas non stop.

King, one-time sparring partner for Sugar Ray Robinson, has lived in Paris for three years.

Pompee hasn't found work in the light heavy division since spring and resorted to the middleweights only to make a little money. He now stands a fair chance of getting a fight in London in March against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight titleholder. London promoter Jack Solomons hopes to match the winner of that fight against Bobo Olson, world middleweight champion.

Top Women's Teams Will Meet Tonight

Frostburg American Legion will play host to Clingerman's and the Hi Dee Club will visit the Woodmen of the World in tonight's top matches in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

These two matches involve four of the five leading teams in the county race.

Frostburg Legion (17-7) holds the runner-up spot, two full games back of the front-running Golden Nugget (19-5). Hi Dee Club, Clingerman's and W.O.W. are deadlocked for fourth place (15-9), four games off the pace.

Cas Taylor's shoots it out with Golden Nugget at Frostburg, Pocahontas is at Kelly Tavern and Purple Heart visits Cresaptown Firemen's Club in other matches on tap for tonight.

Fort Hill, LaVale, the Falcons, and the Eagles earned wins in the Western Maryland League's fourth smallbore rifle match held Sunday afternoon at Bowman's Addition and Oakland.

On the local range, Fort Hill rolled over Cumberland, 1134 to 1039, and LaVale stopped Frostburg, 1105 to 791. The undefeated Fort Hill crew was headed by Frank Simpson's score of 289 points. Bill Whitson topped the LaVale winners also with a tally of 289.

At the Oakland Armory range, the Falcons handed Hercules riflemen their first defeat of the season, 1117 to 1105. Wilson White's 282 paced the victors. An individual tally of 292 by Jim Spitznogle was Hercules' best and placed high for the meet.

Also at Oakland, the Eagles posted 1113 to take an Avilton forfeit. Ed Michael's 285 markup headed the winners.

The fifth any-sight match in the four position schedule will be held next Sunday with teams in action at both ranges.

MINK STOLE
Get that Million Dollar Look From the
MILLION DOLLAR BEER
That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.
No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.
HERE'S ALL YOU DO:
Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

channel work; $25,000 for approaches to the new Potomac River Bridge to be built next year, and $305,000 as the portion of the reconstructed Wills Creek bridges properly chargeable to flood protection.

The new Valley Street bridge will cost more than the sum set aside in 1947 plans for renovation of the bridges. The low bid on the bridge is $280,694.50, and 15 per cent must be added to this sum to meet engineering costs, contingencies and rights of way.

Change Is Suggested

City officials are aware that the change in plans which call for replacing present spans with modern bridges will call for more money, but insist that the bridges should be brought up to modern standards, to meet the increased traffic loads the city's streets are carrying.

City officials for some months have realized that if present plans for the flood project are retained, more money will have to be provided to meet local obligations.

One suggestion was to substitute concrete flood walls for earth levees along the Potomac River in Ridgeley and the West Side of Cumberland.

The Corps of Engineers studied the plan and reported flood walls on the West Side would cut the city's cost for real estate by $107,000 but would cost the government $174,000 more, and that moving utilities would cost the city another $13,000. The net increase in cost would be $80,000.

Suggests Bond Issues

In Ridgeley, flood walls would save Cumberland $32,000 for real estate—and add that amount to the government's real estate cost, and there would be a net increase in Ridgeley construction costs of $598,000.

Army Engineers report they must proceed under present plans, since the substitution of walls for levees would constitute a change in plans and would have to be approved by Congress.

At Monday's council meeting, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, estimated about $598,000 more will have to be raised to complete the city's obligations in connection with the flood project.

He suggested that the city ask the General Assembly in 1955 for authorization to sell about $360,000 more bonds. The balance, about $240,000 would be requested of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Local funds now on hand are estimated to be sufficient to last through 1954 phases of the work.

Carver Teen Club To Meet Saturday

This week's program will include a movie, table games, pool, social games and dancing.

Commissioners To Attend State Meeting

A meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners today in Annapolis will be attended by five Allegany County officials.

They are William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of County Commissioners; James Holmes, board member; James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board; Somerville Nicholson, chief assessor for the county, and J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor. Commissioner James Orr will be unable to attend.

Principal measure to be discussed will be a proposal by the state group to have an amendment to the three-year assessment law which goes into effect next year.

The law provides that the counties assess property next year and then hold the assessments until 1957. The assessment proposal advocated by the state commissioners' group would have the assessments placed on the books the same year they are made.

A letter was received by the board today from James B. Raines, executor director of the Cumberland Housing Authority, with a check for $303.64 for the county's share of shelter rents paid by tenants at the Jane Frazier Village, local housing development.

Rents Explained

Raines in his letter pointed out that the money was for that portion of shelter rents from August 1, 1952 until March 31, 1953. The next apportionment will be paid after the fiscal year of the Housing Authority ending June 30, 1954.

The letter pointed out that prior to the use of the tract in Mapleside as a housing development the former owners paid taxes in the sum of $86. This was for both state and county assessments.

Major Felton enlisted in the Army July 19, 1940 after graduating from Somerset High School in June 1940. He returned to the United States after service in Hawaii and was commissioned a second lieutenant in an armored division.

During World War II he was commander of the 747th Armored Battalion assigned to the 29th Division. He served in the invasion of Europe until severely wounded near Aachen, Germany. After the war he served in the German occupation forces for three years.

For the past two years, he had been living in Fort Sill with his wife, the former Yvonne Swarmer, of Rockwood, and their three daughters, Marsha, 7; Linda Sue, 4; and Kay Lynn, 1.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8 (INS)—I had to go to New York to see Harry Joe Brown who has been one of my close friends for a quarter of a century. I saw a lot of him in the big town, so now we're back in Hollywood, he called today to say "hi."

"What's new with you at Columbia?" I asked him.

"Big news," said Harry Joe. "I've just signed Dana Andrews for 'Three Hours to Kill,' an original by Alex Gottlieb. When Dana returns from making 'Duel in the Jungle' in Africa, this will be his next."

Harry Joe has made money-pictures with the Randy Scott western epics.

Never let it be said that the Irish are unimaginative! Met Billy Grady having dinner with Gloria and Jimmy Stewart at Chasen's, and he was allagog over an idea that he's almost closed.

Billy is negotiating with authorities in Ireland for the removal of the Blarney Stone from Blarney Castle to the United States for a tour. He tells me the proceeds go toward financing the education of Irish students of medicine and dentistry who want to study in this country.

What's happened to Henry Fonda is a question theatrical people were discussing in Chicago. He stays aloof from everyone in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" company.

John Hodiak and Lloyd Nolan are pals, and John tells everyone how good Lloyd is, but Hank is never with them, nor does he fraternize with the other members of the company. I'm reliably informed that he will leave the play before long, and that it's possible that Paul Gregory will substitute for him.

Hank's unwillingsness to take any direction is said to be one reason that Dick Powell withdrew from the play.

If you happened to see Jack Benny, flanked by his man Irving Fein, lunching in a Brown Derby booth with Jerry Wald and his associate, Milton Pickman—I can tell you they weren't there just for the apple streudel.

Jack wants to do a movie again and while these gentlemen haven't let me in on their secret, my guess is it will be "Phfft," the new play by the author of the hit, "Seven Year Itch," George Axelrod. Freddie Kohlmar will produce. Axelrod gets here next Monday.

Under an assumed name, Mario Lanza has been at Arrowhead Springs for several weeks taking the baths and reducing.

Most people thought that Lanza was in a sanitarium outside of New York. But, apparently, he's decided to get himself down to size right here. If he is to go on with his career, it is imperative he get the weight off.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lily Pons was hostess at a cocktail party Sunday honoring Dr. and Mrs. Max Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Kaye.

The lovely prima donna said she had just spoken to Andre Kostelanetz that day and she didn't act as if there was trouble. She said she's building a house in Palm Springs but she has to leave on an operatic engagement December 13. Rumor is strong, however, that Lily's heart belongs in Palm Springs.

The best news the town has had in a long time is Janie Wyman and Freddie Karger's reconciliation. I love them both.

Such good news from Betty Grable and Harry James in Detroit. They broke all previously held box office records. They'll be back in Hollywood December 14 for a short vacation before Harry opens at the Hollywood Palladium Christmas Day.

Frankie Sinatra escorted Jean Simmons to the party Sol Siegel gave at the Cocoanut Grove to hear Lena Horne. At the party were the Spike Joneses, the Milton Pickmans and the Bert Allenbergs.

Lena is doing terrific business at the Grove.

Julius LaRosa, who certainly has humility—if you know what I mean—gets here in February for his screen test. He's one of the most modest young men I have ever met.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Federal Government Mum On Building Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—The federal government hesitated again today to say whether it will help finance redevelopment of a Baltimore area which would include a new state office building.

The program review committee of the Division of Slum Clearance and Redevelopment in the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency met to go over the city's application for funds.

Afterward, a spokesman said "several points" have to be cleared up before a decision is reached. The questions will be sent to the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8 (INS)—I had to go to New York to see Harry Joe Brown who has been one of my close friends for a quarter of a century. I saw a lot of him in the big town, so now we're back in Hollywood, he called today to say "hi."

"What's new with you at Columbia?" I asked him.

"Big news," said Harry Joe. "I've just signed Dana Andrews for 'Three Hours to Kill,' an original by Alex Gottlieb. When Dana returns from making 'Duel in the Jungle' in Africa, this will be his next."

Harry Joe has made money-pictures with the Randy Scott western epics.

Never let it be said that the Irish are unimaginative! Met Billy Grady having dinner with Gloria and Jimmy Stewart at Chasen's, and he was allagog over an idea that he's almost closed.

Billy is negotiating with authorities in Ireland for the removal of the Blarney Stone from Blarney Castle to the United States for a tour. He tells me the proceeds go toward financing the education of Irish students of medicine and dentistry who want to study in this country.

What's happened to Henry Fonda is a question theatrical people were discussing in Chicago. He stays aloof from everyone in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" company.

John Hodiak and Lloyd Nolan are pals, and John tells everyone how good Lloyd is, but Hank is never with them, nor does he fraternize with the other members of the company. I'm reliably informed that he will leave the play before long, and that it's possible that Paul Gregory will substitute for him.

Hank's unwillingsness to take any direction is said to be one reason that Dick Powell withdrew from the play.

If you happened to see Jack Benny, flanked by his man Irving Fein, lunching in a Brown Derby booth with Jerry Wald and his associate, Milton Pickman—I can tell you they weren't there just for the apple streudel.

Automatic Gate On Piedmont Crossing Cited

B&O Engineer Explains System

PIEDMONT—The possibility of the placement of flasher lights, automatic gate and bell at the Child's Avenue Crossing were discussed during a meeting of the Mayor and Council by D. A. Steel, grade crossing engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The system, which would cost approximately $28,000, would be in operation 24 hours a day. At present the crossing is unattended from 1 a. m. to 7 a. m. The expense of the system, Steel pointed out, would be taken care of by the railroad and a resolution by the city is necessary for installation.

Mayor Allan L. Hill deferred action on the proposal until citizens can be briefed on the system's operation. Steel will speak before the Piedmont Woman's Club; Parent-Teachers Association, Rotary and Lions Clubs within the next few months on the subject.

A letter from the State Water Commission in answer to a letter of the city advising the Commission of the difficulty in raising money for a preliminary survey for an adequate sewage disposal system was read during the meeting.

The commission suggested the city contact consulting engineering firms for relative cost of a preliminary survey.

The Christmas lights along the downtown streets of Piedmont will be turned on Saturday night. The city Clerk's office will be closed December 25-26 and January 1-2. During those weeks garbage will be collected Wednesday downtown and Thursday on the hill.

It was ordered that garbage cans with contents must not weigh over 100 pounds.

A resolution was passed thanking Mrs. Lillyan Cole, assistant city clerk whose resignation is effective December 31, after 20 years of service.

Joseph Eger was given permission to work his two weeks vacation and will be paid extra for it. Last week $17.50 was collected in the meters on the Municipal Parking lot.

Patrons are asked to use only nickels and quarters in the meters. A total of $61.35 was collected in street parking meters last week and $9.75 was received in parking fines. Ninety-seven dollars and thirteen cents was ordered paid to the Karpark Company toward payment of the parking meters.

Former Frostburger Begins Long Trip Around World

FROSTBURG—Miss Inez M. Johnson, a former resident of Frostburg, who has been teaching at Santiago College in Santiago, Chile, has started on a trip around the world in which she will travel by airplane, returning to Santiago next August 1.

The former Frostburger's first stop will be Lisbon, Portugal.

Her itinerary includes visits to Madrid, Spain; Nice, France; Damascus, Teheran, Karachi, New Delhi, and Srinagar. From January 11 to January 27 she will visit in the interior of India, and returning to Delhi she will visit the larger cities of India until March 2, when she will go to China. Her airplane visits to the continent of Asia will end on March 18, when she will arrive in Manila en route to the United States. She will visit Wake Island, Honolula, San Francisco and New York.

From New York she will visit Frostburg, remaining until July 31 and then return to Santiago by way of Panama.

Miss Johnson has spent practically every vacation of her adult life on a trip to foreign countries. Her present tour to the Orient was arranged at her request by the Royal Dutch Airlines for the purpose of giving her an opportunity to visit countries not included on any of her former trips.

Miss Johnson is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James T. Johnson, of Frostburg. She graduated from Beall High School with the class of 1898, and later completed courses at the Fairmont State Teachers College and Temple University of Philadelphia. Automatic Gate On Piedmont Crossing Cited

PIEDMONT—The possibility of the placement of flasher lights, automatic gate and bell at the Child's Avenue Crossing were discussed during a meeting of the Mayor and Council by D. A. Steel, grade crossing engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The system, which would cost approximately $28,000, would be in operation 24 hours a day. At present the crossing is unattended from 1 a. m. to 7 a. m. The expense of the system, Steel pointed out, would be taken care of by the railroad and a resolution by the city is necessary for installation.

Mayor Allan L. Hill deferred action on the proposal until citizens can be briefed on the system's operation. Steel will speak before the Piedmont Woman's Club; Parent-Teachers Association, Rotary and Lions Clubs within the next few months on the subject.

A letter from the State Water Commission in answer to a letter of the city advising the Commission of the difficulty in raising money for a preliminary survey for an adequate sewage disposal system was read during the meeting.

The commission suggested the city contact consulting engineering firms for relative cost of a preliminary survey.

The Christmas lights along the downtown streets of Piedmont will be turned on Saturday night. The city Clerk's office will be closed December 25-26 and January 1-2. During those weeks garbage will be collected Wednesday downtown and Thursday on the hill.

It was ordered that garbage cans with contents must not weigh over 100 pounds.

A resolution was passed thanking Mrs. Lillyan Cole, assistant city clerk whose resignation is effective December 31, after 20 years of service.

Joseph Eger was given permission to work his two weeks vacation and will be paid extra for it. Last week $17.50 was collected in the meters on the Municipal Parking lot.

Patrons are asked to use only nickels and quarters in the meters. A total of $61.35 was collected in street parking meters last week and $9.75 was received in parking fines. Ninety-seven dollars and thirteen cents was ordered paid to the Karpark Company toward payment of the parking meters.

Too Many Commercials?

"Sponsor" magazine, which occasionally acts as the conscience of the industry, fell to brooding over the over-commercialization of television the other day and decided to ask the people in it what they thought. The magazine sent out a batch of postcards to advertising executives, agency account men, advertising managers, station executives and so forth.

John Crosby

They were asked "Is TV over-commercialized?" The results were an eye-opener. The box score: 59.5 per cent said TV was over-commercialized; 12.3 per cent said maybe it was; 28.2 per cent said no, it wasn't. Mind you, these are not viewers, who are tired of commercials; these are the folks who earn their living by the commercialism of television—the folks who run stations or are employed by ad agencies.

Their point of view, naturally, differs sharply from ours. A viewer, with no stake in the situation except a desire to be entertained, is either bored or irritated or infuriated by a commercial. An ad agency guy, on the other hand, views each commercial as a potential competitor. Most of the postcards, I notice, complain more about the profligacy of spot announcements than the nature of them.

In other words, the message about a cleansing tissue is not likely to stick to your bones very long if it is surrounded on all sides by pleas to buy second hand cars, cigarets and magazines. That is the practical aspect of the matter. As a long range proposition, the whole prestige and efficacy of advertising is at stake. The comments on the postcards are illuminating. They range from the bottomless cynicism of one public relations man—"Why curb this before it stops paying off?"—to the enlightened plea of a Los Angeles ad agency president — "Educate clients from constant hard sell."

The television industry, represented by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, adopted a code about commercials which contained a lot of sense. The networks mostly abide by it. But of the 315 TV stations in the nation, only 191 subscribe to the code which lays down fundamental rules for advertising on the air. The rest of the stations pay no attention. And many of the stations which have promised to observe the code don't.

There is nothing at all compulsory about the code. In fact, the word "suggested" bobs up again and again. Among the "suggestions" which are frequently violated are the total amount of advertising allowed on a half hour program (four minutes and fifteen seconds which is one minute and fifteen seconds more than was standard practice on radio) or seven minutes for an hour show (one minute more than radio).

Another one: "When dramatizing advertising material involves statements by doctors, dentists, nurses or other professional people, the material should be presented by members of such professions reciting actual experiences or it should be made apparent from the presentation itself that the portrayal is dramatized." That one is violated every day, not only on station shows, but on network shows.

The principal offenders, though, are not networks but individual stations which are wallowing in income from these malpractices. When six out of ten ad men and station executives feel that TV is over-commercialized, something is clearly wrong. Eventually, there will be an outcry from the public of even greater dimension. Then some congressman will start a crusade to determine just how much advertising is good for the public. That possibility alone ought to drive the more responsible members of the industry—of whom there are quite a lot—to clean their own houses before someone else does it for them.

"Sponsor" will present a more detailed breakdown of its survey than this space allows in its issue of December 14.

JOKES CAN BE SERIOUS

IT IS usually only a joke if somebody says "When in doubt, lead trumps." But there are times when that remark can be taken seriously. Or perhaps it should be said that there are times when there is no doubt. The main such situation is faced when the declarer and his partner have landed in a suit contract after each had shown a different side suit. Then it is pretty well marked that the contractor is in a position to ruff some losers, perhaps executing a cross-ruff whereby he consumes just one trump per trick instead of two. The best counter-measure then is usually a trump lead to make him use two trumps at a time.

	♠ J 6 ♥ 9 6 5 ♦ Q 10 9 6 3 ♣ A 10 7
♠ 10 9 5 4 3 ♥ None ♦ A K J 8 5 ♣ 9 6 5	N W E S	♠ 8 2 ♥ A Q J 8 7 2 ♦ 4 ♣ K Q 4 2
	♠ A K Q 7 ♥ K 10 4 3 ♦ 7 2 ♣ J 8 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.

This misfit hand induced identical bidding at both tables of a team match, but the results produced extreme contrasts, due mainly to the opening lead.

One North, disliking leads from his minor suit honors and being a congenital hater of trump leads, picked what ordinarily would be the worst of all—the dummy's suit. He opened the heart 9, which the A won. The diamond 4 was led to the K, the 8 ruffed by the spade 2, the heart Q sent through when South refrained from a cover, the club 5 being shed, and the heart J, covered by the K, was ruffed by the spade 3.

Now the diamond J was covered by the Q, ruffed by the spade 8 and over-ruffed by the Q. Now, much too late, South laid down the spade K and A, though as it proved, a low spade to the J and a return would have been a trick better, as South now had only the low 7 to lead to the 9. West got all the rest, except for one trick lost to the club A, so made his 3-Spades right on the head.

At the other table, the defense did practically a double-dummy job, taking the spade J, 6 to the Q, the K and A in order and thus compelling South also to lose a trick in each side suit to be down three. So the best lead this time was worth three tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K 8 4 ♥ Q J 8 2 ♦ 10 7 ♣ 8 7 2
♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 6 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 ♣ J 10 6	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 5 3 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A J 3 ♣ Q 9 3
	♠ 10 ♥ A K 9 5 4 ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ A K 5 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

JOKES CAN BE SERIOUS

IT IS USUALLY only a joke if somebody says "When in doubt, lead trumps." But there are times when that remark can be taken seriously. Or perhaps it should be said that there are times when there is no doubt. The main such situation is faced when the declarer and his partner have landed in a suit contract after each had shown a different side suit. Then it is pretty well marked that the contractor is in a position to ruff some losers, perhaps executing a cross-ruff whereby he consumes just one trump per trick instead of two. The best counter-measure then is usually a trump lead to make him use two trumps at a time.

	♠ J 6 ♥ 9 6 5 ♦ Q 10 9 6 3 ♣ A 10 7
♠ 10 9 5 4 3 ♥ None ♦ A K J 8 5 ♣ 9 6 5	N W E S	♠ 8 2 ♥ A Q J 8 7 2 ♦ 4 ♣ K Q 4 2
	♠ A K Q 7 ♥ K 10 4 3 ♦ 7 2 ♣ J 8 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.

This misfit hand induced identical bidding at both tables of a team match, but the results produced extreme contrasts, due mainly to the opening lead.

One North, disliking leads from his minor suit honors and being a congenital hater of trump leads, picked what ordinarily would be the worst of all—the dummy's suit. He opened the heart 9, which the A won. The diamond 4 was led to the K, the 8 ruffed by the spade 2, the heart Q sent through when South refrained from a cover, the club 5 being shed, and the heart J, covered by the K, was ruffed by the spade 3.

Now the diamond J was covered by the Q, ruffed by the spade 8 and over-ruffed by the Q. Now, much too late, South laid down the spade K and A, though as it proved, a low spade to the J and a return would have been a trick better, as South now had only the low 7 to lead to the 9. West got all the rest, except for one trick lost to the club A, so made his 3-Spades right on the head.

At the other table, the defense did practically a double-dummy job, taking the spade J, 6 to the Q, the K and A in order and thus compelling South also to lose a trick in each side suit to be down three. So the best lead this time was worth three tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K 8 4 ♥ Q J 8 2 ♦ 10 7 ♣ 8 7 2
♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 6 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 ♣ J 10 6	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 5 3 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A J 3 ♣ Q 9 3
	♠ 10 ♥ A K 9 5 4 ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ A K 5 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

How can the bidding style of North and South influence the defense on this team match deal?

CHRYSLER

1952 CHRYSLER SARATOGA
Here is another executive's car that has only been driven 28,000 miles and has had regular checks. This beautiful two tone (blue body and light top) finished car does not have a mark. The Chrysler equipment includes heater, defroster, power brakes, undercoat, backup lights, signal lights and the powerful torque drive with four speed forward transmission. The light gray interior is contrasted by striped plastic seat covers. The tires look like new. (The Saratoga is the car that set all the Chrysler records on the salt flats of Utah.) This is a P.M. special at . . .

1948 NASH SUPER CLUB COUPE
Attention all you young fellows who'd like a flashy two tone car with spotlight. We have just the car you are looking for. You will not have to buy tires, as these are good. You're gas bill will stay low because the gas mileage is high. The clean interior does not need to be touched. It will be a pleasure to drive on cold days because of the large all-weather air conditioner and defroster. This is a real bargain at . . .

$395

1947 CHRYSLER NEW YORKER Club Coupe. The former owner of this car was very particular and always had his car checked and repaired at the slightest noise or squeak. We have done all the work on this car and have all the records to show you. The color of this club coupe is a light gray with contrasting light gray interior, blue seats and instrument panel. Fully equipped with radio, heater, defroster, signal lights, side mirrors, clock and very good tires. The four speed forward transmission and all mechanical parts are in A-1 working condition. A big economy car for only . . .

CHRYSLER

1952 CHRYSLER SARATOGA

Here is another executive's car that has only been driven 28,000 miles and has had regular checks. This beautiful two tone (blue body and light top) finished car does not have a mark. The Chrysler equipment includes heater, defroster, power brakes, undercoat, backup lights, signal lights and the powerful torque drive with four speed forward transmission. The light gray interior is contrasted by striped plastic seat covers. The tires look like new. (The Saratoga is the car that set all the Chrysler records on the salt flats of Utah.) This is a P.M. special at . . .

1948 NASH SUPER CLUB COUPE

Attention all you young fellows who'd like a flashy two tone car with spotlight. We have just the car you are looking for. You will not have to buy tires, as these are good. You're gas bill will stay low because the gas mileage is high. The clean interior does not need to be touched. It will be a pleasure to drive on cold days because of the large all-weather air conditioner and defroster. This is a real bargain at . . .

$395

1947 CHRYSLER NEW YORKER Club Coupe. The former owner of this car was very particular and always had his car checked and repaired at the slightest noise or squeak. We have done all the work on this car and have all the records to show you. The color of this club coupe is a light gray with contrasting light gray interior, blue seats and instrument panel. Fully equipped with radio, heater, defroster, signal lights, side mirrors, clock and very good tires. The four speed forward transmission and all mechanical parts are in A-1 working condition. A big economy car for only . . .

"Miracle" Keeps Man From Jail

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Marion Holloway pleaded today with the magistrate not to send him back to jail from which he had just been released yesterday.

It would prevent him from working to earn money to buy Christmas presents for his family, said the beseeching Holloway who was up again on a charge of being drunk.

But Magistrate William F. Laukaitis was unmoved. "Only a miracle can save you from jail," he said.

The magistrate started to write out a sentence. His pen ran dry after writing "30".

"Well, it looks like the miracle has happened," said Magistrate Laukaitis. "My pen has run dry, and I can't give you the 30 days."

Frederick Firm Low Bidder On Road Work

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Richard F. Kline of Frederick was the apparent low bidder at $233,618 today on the rebuilding of a little more than a mile of State Route 71 at the Frederick-Carroll County line below Keymar.

There was a low whistle in the bid opening room at State Road Commission headquarters when the M. J. Grove Lime Co. of Limekiln came in with a bid only $547 higher.

Two other bids ran as high as $251,243.

The work calls for a major relocation of the road, widening and resurfacing, from Little Pipe Creek in Frederick County to the junction with State Route 85 at Keymar.

The Wright Contracting Co., Inc. of Columbus, Ga., submitted the apparent low bid of $39,225 for widening a box culvert west of Dawsonville at points where State Route 28 crosses Dry Senece Creek in Montgomery County.

Faloney's Injured Knee Responds To Treatment

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—The injured knee of quarterback Bernie Faloney, key operator of Maryland's No. 1 football team, was examined today and found to be responding to treatment.

But Trainer Duke Wyre said it still will be another week or 10 days before he knows whether the triple-threat star will be ready for Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1.

Faloney's deceptive handling of Maryland's tricky split-T attack and his brilliant defensive play helped the Terrapins remain unbeaten and untied in 10 games this season, but the East Carnegie, Pa., senior was injured early in the finale against Alabama.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

"Miracle" Keeps Man From Jail

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Marion Holloway pleaded today with the magistrate not to send him back to jail from which he had just been released yesterday.

It would prevent him from working to earn money to buy Christmas presents for his family, said the beseeching Holloway who was up again on a charge of being drunk.

But Magistrate William F. Laukaitis was unmoved. "Only a miracle can save you from jail," he said.

The magistrate started to write out a sentence. His pen ran dry after writing "30".

"Well, it looks like the miracle has happened," said Magistrate Laukaitis. "My pen has run dry, and I can't give you the 30 days."

Frederick Firm Low Bidder On Road Work

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Richard F. Kline of Frederick was the apparent low bidder at $233,618 today on the rebuilding of a little more than a mile of State Route 71 at the Frederick-Carroll County line below Keymar.

There was a low whistle in the bid opening room at State Road Commission headquarters when the M. J. Grove Lime Co. of Limekiln came in with a bid only $547 higher.

Two other bids ran as high as $251,243.

The work calls for a major relocation of the road, widening and resurfacing, from Little Pipe Creek in Frederick County to the junction with State Route 85 at Keymar.

The Wright Contracting Co., Inc. of Columbus, Ga., submitted the apparent low bid of $39,225 for widening a box culvert west of Dawsonville at points where State Route 28 crosses Dry Senece Creek in Montgomery County.

Faloney's Injured Knee Responds To Treatment

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—The injured knee of quarterback Bernie Faloney, key operator of Maryland's No. 1 football team, was examined today and found to be responding to treatment.

But Trainer Duke Wyre said it still will be another week or 10 days before he knows whether the triple-threat star will be ready for Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1.

Faloney's deceptive handling of Maryland's tricky split-T attack and his brilliant defensive play helped the Terrapins remain unbeaten and untied in 10 games this season, but the East Carnegie, Pa., senior was injured early in the finale against Alabama.

6 Flee Blaze In West Side Apartments

Flames Damage Four-Family Dwelling Unit

A three-alarm fire routed a young couple and their two children from their second-floor apartment at 743 Washington Street just hours after they had moved in last night. The blaze, which apparently began in an incinerator chute, also forced the owner of the building and his wife to flee before firemen brought the flames under control.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cody, their three-year-old son, Larry, and their five-months-old daughter had just finished moving their furniture into their compact little apartment when smoke began to fill the building.

William A. Spruill, owner of the apartment house, and his wife who lived on the first floor, at first thought the blaze in the incinerator to be minor. They turned in the alarm at 8:35 p. m.

Second, Third Alarms Ring

However, West Side firemen who answered the call were unable to extinguish the flames before they spread through the eaves of the house between the second and third floors. Hurry-up calls went to Central for help, and Central fire engine and the 85-foot aerial ladder answered second and third alarms.

After battling the fire for nearly two hours firemen were able to get it under control at about 10 o'clock. However, considerable damage was reported to the second and third-floor apartments.

The occupant of the third-floor apartment, Earl W. Lowery, was not at home. The ground floor apartment, occupied by Robert H. Richardson, apparently was undamaged. Richardson also was away from his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cody, with two very sleepy children on their hands, were a disillusioned couple as they faced a long night with no place to stay and their only possessions the clothes on their backs.

The couple was taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bestwick, 801 Washington Street, as Cody attempted to find a solution for their dilemma.

The Cody family had just moved into the apartment building yesterday after living for several months in Frostburg. The couple came to Cumberland from Pittsburgh when Cody was named manager of Nobil's Shoe Store here several months ago.

Started In Incinerator

Spruill last night said the incinerator chute, which extends to the top floor from the basement, apparently became clogged with papers and a lighted cigarette or match ignited the material. The flames spread to the eaves of the building and broke through the apartment walls before aid could arrive.

Dense smoke hampered the efforts of firemen to combat the fire, and water damage to the apartments was considerable as firemen wet down the building to keep flames from spreading.

As firemen brought the blaze under control, Spruill began cleaning up the mess in his apartment, which was damaged only by water. He said his wife was going to stay with a sister for the night.

It marked the second time tragedy had struck at the same building in the form of a fire, the house having been gutted nearly 10 years ago by flames. Owned at that time by William Sherman, the house later was sold to Spruill, who converted it into four apartments.

Firemen Inspect Damage

Firemen from West Side and Central stations insp ect damage to the ceiling of the third floor apartment and the attic at 743 Washington Street after flames routed occupants of the four-family dwelling. The blaze, which apparently started in an incinerator chute, was battled nearly two hours before being extinguished. Holding the flashlight is West Side Assistant Chief James A. Jackson while Assistant Chief Robert C. Long (center) of Central and three other firemen go up the ladder.

Committees To Study Savage River Problem

Michaels, Helbig To Head Groups

The Savage River Dam Commission appointed recently by Gov. McKeldin to study problems connected with operation of the huge Garrett County reservoir, held an organizational meeting yesterday afternoon at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The two principal questions to be studied by the group, which is an outgrowth of a Senate joint resolution in the Maryland General Assembly, are the town of Westernport's water supply and construction of a roadway around the dam and reservoir.

Owen E. Hitchins, chairman of the governor's commission, said last night two subcommittees were appointed to study the individual problems and will report to the main body at a later meeting.

Helbig Michaels Named

Heading the subcommittee to look into details of the Westernport water supply is Okey Michael, mayor of the Allegany County community. J. Edward Helbig, president of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, heads the subcommittee studying the road situation.

Findings of the main body, following reports of the subcommittees, will be recommended to the state legislature.

Concerning the construction of a roadway around the dam there has been considerable controversy. Garrett County representatives feel the road should be built by some agency other than the county, as the Savage River Dam regulates the flow of the Potomac River so that Allegany County benefits by flood control and alleviation of pollution.

At present it is undecided whether Allegany County, the State of Maryland, Garrett County, or the federal government should be responsible for the construction and upkeep of the road.

The town of Westernport receives its water supply from the reservoir and complaints have been filed that the supply is not pure and free of pollution.

The dam covers 450 acres with drainage area of 105 square miles. Several anti-pollution regulations are in effect. No bathing is permitted except by permission of the Maryland State Department of Health and the Westernport council. Fishing is permitted only in certain areas and the only motorboats allowed are used by the Upper Potomac River Commission patrols and the Corps of Army Engineers.

Army Engineer Attends

Picknicking is allowed only by permission of the Upper Potomac River Commission, the Department of State Forests and Parks, and the Maryland State Department of Health.

Attending yesterday's organizational meeting were Hitchins; G. Bates Chaires, district engineer representing Russell McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission; Joseph M. Kaylor, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks; William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners; Helbig, Michaels, members of the Upper Potomac River Commission, operators of the Savage River Dam; Edward D. E. Rollins, attorney general of Maryland; and I. Alvin Pasarew, director of the State Planning Commission.

Col. Byron Bird, member of the Corps of Army Engineers, also attended.

Mrs. Chappell Heads Allegany Food Association

Mrs. Philomena A. Chappel, cafeteria manager at Columbia Street School, is the new president of the Allegany County affiliate of the American School Food Service Association.

Other officers are Mrs. Lucy Klavuhn, cafeteria manager at West Side School, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Rizer, cafeteria manager at East Side School, secretary; Mrs. Karaha McIntyre, school lunch employe at Valley High School, Lonaconing, treasurer.

Approximately 110 were present and all joined the Maryland School Food Service Association of which William P. Cooper, director of the Allegany County school lunch program, is president.

Mrs. Jane S. Legge, cafeteria manager at Fort Hill High School, and Miss Lydia Laing, school lunch employe at the same school, were presented 15-year service pins received from the American School Food Service Association. These pins bore the motto "Finis Coronat Opus," the end crowns the work."

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of the school lunch program of the county, presented Mrs. Nola Smith, cafeteria manager at Flintstone School and retiring president of the association, the specially designed gavel to this group by the American School Food Service Association.

F. Patrick Allender, president of the Trades Council, will be in charge of the installation which is scheduled at 8 p. m.

To be installed are James Morrison, president; Burr Powell, vice president; Lawrence Grim, secretary-treasurer and business agent, and Joseph May, warden.

The meeting will open at 7:30 p. m. with a discussion on plans for a new contract with the Cumberland Transit Lines. A similar meeting for workers on night runs will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. in the Trades Council Hall.

Liberty Trust Directors Declare Two Dividends

County Donors Give 240 Pints

The regional Bloodmobile unit from the Red Cross headquarters in Johnstown, Pa. yesterday collected 107 pints of blood at the American Legion Home in Frostburg on the second day of the county visit.

With the 133 pints contributed in Cumberland Monday, the total donations for the county amounted to 240 pints, 60 pints short of the 300-pint quota for December.

Red Cross officials said the reason for not meeting the blood goal this month was that many persons did not keep their appointments during the two days.

At Frostburg, 130 donors were scheduled, but many did not show up to give blood. Added to the number of rejections yesterday, only the 54 "walk-ins" saved the day and put contributions over the 100 mark.

Frostburg workers reported that 11 new volunteers, who had never given blood before, donated a pint each yesterday.

$750 Damages Sought For Auto Accident

Max M. Nazlerod, by Walter V. Nazlerod, his father and next friend, RFD 3, yesterday filed a $750 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against John Bailey, RFD 3, Bowman's Addition.

In the declaration, filed by Attorney Earl E. Manges, he states that Max M. Nazlerod was driving north on Valley Street near Chestnut Street about 3:10 p. m. November 21 when Bailey's automobile collided with the Nazlerod car. The plaintiff's car was damaged extensively in the crash, Manges added.

CD Authorities Pleased With Test Of Sirens

City Hall Receives Hundreds Of Calls

Generally good coverage was reported by Civil Defense authorities here last night following a test of each of the sirens which form Cumberland's disaster warning system.

The public response to the test, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city CD coordinator, indicates there may still be some "dead spots" which are not covered by the sirens.

Hundreds of calls were received at City Hall by Gibson and his daughter, Miss Ann Gibson, from citizens and Civil Defense workers, reporting on the coverage of the sirens.

Gibson said CD authorities were "well pleased" with the public response to the test.

The sirens, located at Fayette Street and Plum Alley, South End Fire Company, Fairmont Avenue and Gephart Drive, and Camden Avenue, were set off for one-minute blasts under the direction of William G. Barger, county CD director.

A complete test will be held later, Gibson said, after relays are installed so all of the sirens can be activated simultaneously from a central control point.

One CD warden reported from North Centre Street that traffic there stopped when the siren went off, and remained until the wailing stopped, in spite of instructions motorists might proceed since this was not an "alert" but only a test of equipment.

A number of calls were received at The News' switchboard inquiring about the siren test.

Many of those calling in reported varying results from weak signals to strong blasts.

The Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Grades will present a play, "The Christmas Story," as told by Thomas Benson, Ray Dixon and Robert Mullennex, assisted by the chorus.

Local Hunter, Lost Overnight, Returns Home

Nearly 100 Search For Ernest H. Hess

A local deer hunter, lost overnight in the woods of Green Ridge Mountain, was safely back home yesterday after approximately 50 to 100 men had joined in an extensive search for him.

State Police, forestry workers, hunters and volunteers fanned out over the area and made use of radios and a walkie-talkie in the search for Ernest H. Hess, 53, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad carpenter who resides at 223 Emily Street.

On Monday about 6:30 a. m. Hess and his 26-year-old son, Benjamin, of 425 Valley Street, drove to Railroad Hollow and went into the woods together.

They spotted a few doe during the day, and at about 3:30 p. m. Hess sent his son up to make a drive on a nearby ridge. Later the son apparently got lost and failed to return.

Son Gives Alarm

However, the younger Hess found his way to the parked truck and when he saw that his father was not there, went for help. He located the home of Jess Whorton, Mertens Avenue, and then got to a telephone at the home of Mrs. Edna Crocks, from where they notified State Police about 7:30 p. m.

As it grew dark, Hess said, he got bewildered and went in the opposite direction of the parked truck. He decided to build a fire to keep warm. During the evening Hess could hear the shots of the searching party but they apparently could not hear him as he sat by the fire and fired his gun in answer.

State Trooper John F. Browning went to the area and along the way met Brook Bodkin, Ralph Witt, George Brown, Thomas Dixon, William Slider and Jack Bowman of the Forestry Department.

Later they joined the younger Hess at the parked truck and the search got underway as other hunters joined in. For two or three hours the foresters, with vehicles equipped with radios, and the State Police cruiser drove along Mertens Avenue, Green Ridge Road and Jacobs Road in an effort to locate Hess.

Slept Four Hours

Witt, Brown, Bowman and the younger Hess took a walkie-talkie and flashlights and went into the woods to comb the area from Mertens Avenue to Maple Run Ridge on Jacobs Road for a distance of about three miles.

When they could not locate the hunter they returned and decided to take up the search early yesterday morning.

Hess said he was dressed warmly and decided to take a little rest. During the night he managed to get about four hours sleep and after awakening at about 5:45 a. m. decided to look for a road out of the woods.

Hess later walked out onto a back road and followed it. Another hunter saw him and gave him directions back to a main road.

Hess met David W. Dinges, of Riverdale, who drove him to the parked truck.

Worried About Son

His only concern during the night, Hess said, was for the safety of his son, and when he found out his boy was safe, "everything was all right."

Hess remarked that he felt "as good as ever" and despite his night in the woods, plans to go over into Pennsylvania this morning to try his luck again. Trooper Browning complimented the forestry workers for their efficient use of the communications equipment, and praised members of the search party for their tireless efforts.

Delivery Of New City Fire Engine Set For March 1

An official of Ahrens-Fox Fire Apparatus Factory of Cincinnati, Ohio, has told the city its new 750 gallon pumper for the City Fire Department will be delivered by March 1, 1954.

John J. Long, Commissioner of Police and Fire, met Monday night with Walter Walken Horst Jr., vice president of Ahrens-Fox. Also attending the meeting in Long's office was Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

Horst said his firm would endeavor to have the new truck, which will be placed at South End Fire Station, delivered before that date if possible.

The truck, according to Long, has been on order for over a year and he is going to study the matter further.

At present South Cumberland Fire Company has an American-LaFrance 750 gallon pumper which will get a complete overhauling when the new pumper is delivered.

The present truck, Chief Parker pointed out will be useful as second line equipment as soon as the motor is overhauled, and all of the present equipment will be kept in order to provide additional fire protection for the city.

Little Jewelry Company, 113 Baltimore Street, and Russler's Sound Service, 432 Virginia Avenue in South Cumberland.

Hicks explained that the entry blanks are merely a convenience and not a necessity. All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight Wednesday, December 23.

As was the case a year ago, the competition will be in two divisions and two prizes will be awarded in each division. One bracket will be for doorway and window decorations and the other for houses and grounds.

The area embraced by the contest will be the same as it was in 1952. Colored Elks Hold Annual Election Here

Plan Tots' Party, Memorial Rites

Fort Cumberland Lodge 176, IBPOEW, held its annual election last night at the lodge home, 153 North Mechanic Street.

Re-elected were John Wormack, exalted ruler; Jack Powell, esteemed leading knight; John Temple, loyal leading knight; Frank Hamilton, tyler; Carl Meade, esquire, and Elder Trimble, treasurer.

Newly-elected officers include Aldred Mason, esteemed lecturing knight, Carson McDonald, inner guard, both of Keyser; John Gilmore, financial secretary; William Sheppard, recording secretary; Martin L. Erwin, chaplain; Herman Brown, three-year trustee; John Trimble, two-year trustee and Carl Frisby, one-year trustee.

Conducting the election was William H. Brown, district deputy of Chambersburg, Pa. Following the election some plans for future activities were made.

A joint memorial service with Daughter Elks will be held on Sunday, December 20; a kiddies party with other organizations will be held prior to the holiday, and a covered dish supper in conjunction with the Daughters is planned on January 4 at the Elks Home.

John Wormack pointed out that an "Open House" will be held at the Elks Home on New Year's Eve.

City Lays Plans To Raise More Funds For Project

Construction of two more parts of the $17,000,000 Cumberland- Ridgeley Flood Protection project are slated to get underway next year.

The information was included in a letter to Mayor Roy W. Eves from Col. Ray Adams, district engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Col. Adams said plans for the flood wall on the West Side of Cumberland are about 95 per cent complete and that the present schedule calls for construction to begin about June 1, 1954.

Plans for earth levees in Cumberland, between the mouth of Wills Creek and the Kelly Boulevard, and on the opposite bank of the Potomac River in Ridgeley are about 65 per cent complete, Col. Adams said, and construction on this is slated to begin about November 1, 1954.

Ahead Of Schedule

Two other phases of the flood job are now in progress and both are ahead of schedule. The first phase of the Wills Creek channel improvement project is about 86 per cent complete, and the Industrial Dam contract is about 63 per cent complete.

Col. Adams warned, however, that the possibility that there will not be enough funds to meet the city's obligations poses a problem in assuring Congress, while asking for yearly construction appropriations, that local interests are willing and able to meet all their commitments.

He pointed out that once work is stopped on a civil works project, it is next to impossible to get the job under way again under the present economy requirements on civil works.

The city was urged to advise the Corps of Engineers as soon as possible that the necessary funds will be provided.

$2,500,000 Provided

Army Engineers contend that the $2,500,000 estimate of local costs, provided by $1,500,000 of city and $1,000,000 of county bond issues, is substantially correct and that the sum would have been sufficient had spending been limited to items in the original plan.

Col. Adams cited as an example that the Corps of Engineers returned $122,692 to the city from funds set aside for local costs of the first two phases, pressure conduits and storm sewers.

The city, however, has made a number of changes, including the widening of Valley Street, and is planning to rebuild bridges along Wills Creek, instead of merely replacing the part of the bridge which spans the creek, as was called for in the original plans.

List City Costs

Current estimates of the cost to the city for the rest of the Flood Protection project indicate that $1,325,000 will be needed. That is just about $325,000 more than is left of the $2,500,000 bond issues.

The estimates call for $370,900 as advances to the Corps of Engineers for construction chargeable to the city; $625,000 to acquire land needed in Ridgeley, the West Side and for the rest of the Wills Creek

6 Flee Blaze In West Side Apartments

Flames Damage Four-Family Dwelling Unit

A three-alarm fire routed a young couple and their two children from their second-floor apartment at 743 Washington Street just hours after they had moved in last night. The blaze, which apparently began in an incinerator chute, also forced the owner of the building and his wife to flee before firemen brought the flames under control.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cody, their three-year-old son, Larry, and their five-months-old daughter had just finished moving their furniture into their compact little apartment when smoke began to fill the building.

William A. Spruill, owner of the apartment house, and his wife who lived on the first floor, at first thought the blaze in the incinerator to be minor. They turned in the alarm at 8:35 p. m.

Second, Third Alarms Ring

However, West Side firemen who answered the call were unable to extinguish the flames before they spread through the eaves of the house between the second and third floors. Hurry-up calls went to Central for help, and Central fire engine and the 85-foot aerial ladder answered second and third alarms.

After battling the fire for nearly two hours firemen were able to get it under control at about 10 o'clock. However, considerable damage was reported to the second and third-floor apartments.

The occupant of the third-floor apartment, Earl W. Lowery, was not at home. The ground floor apartment, occupied by Robert H. Richardson, apparently was undamaged. Richar'son also was away from his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cody, with two very sleepy children on their hands, were a disillusioned couple as they faced a long night with no place to stay and their only possessions the clothes on their backs.

The couple was taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bestwick, 801 Washington Street, as Cody attempted to find a solution for their dilemma.

The Cody family had just moved into the apartment building yesterday after living for several months in Frostburg. The couple came to Cumberland from Pittsburgh when Cody was named manager of Nobil's Shoe Store here several months ago.

Started In Incinerator

Spruill last night said the incinerator chute, which extends to the top floor from the basement, apparently became clogged with papers and a lighted cigarette or match ignited the material. The flames spread to the eaves of the building and broke through the apartment walls before aid could arrive.

Dense smoke hampered the efforts of firemen to combat the fire, and water damage to the apartments was considerable as firemen wet down the building to keep flames from spreading.

As firemen brought the blaze under control, Spruill began cleaning up the mess in his apartment, which was damaged only by water. He said his wife was going to stay with a sister for the night.

It marked the second time tragedy had struck at the same building in the form of a fire, the house having been gutted nearly 10 years ago by flames. Owned at that time by William Sherman, the house later was sold to Spruill, who converted it into four apartments.

Firemen Inspect Damage

Firemen from West Side and Central stations inspect damage to the ceiling of the third floor apartment and the attic at 743 Washington Street after flames routed occupants of the four-family dwelling. The blaze, which apparently started in an incinerator chute, was battled nearly two hours before being extinguished. Holding the flashlight is West Side Assistant Chief James A. Jackson while Assistant Chief Robert C. Long (center) of Central and three other firemen go up the ladder.

Committees To Study Savage River Problem

Michaels, Helbig To Head Groups

The Savage River Dam Commission appointed recently by Gov. McKeldin to study problems connected with operation of the huge Garrett County reservoir, held an organizational meeting yesterday afternoon at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The two principal questions to be studied by the group, which is an outgrowth of a Senate joint resolution in the Maryland General Assembly, are the town of Westernport's water supply and construction of a roadway around the dam and reservoir.

Owen E. Hitchins, chairman of the governor's commission, said last night two subcommittees were appointed to study the individual problems and will report to the main body at a later meeting.

Helbig Michaels Named

Heading the subcommittee to look into details of the Westernport water supply is Okey Michael, mayor of the Allegany County community. J. Edward Helbig, president of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, heads the subcommittee studying the road situation.

Findings of the main body, following reports of the subcommittees, will be recommended to the state legislature.

Concerning the construction of a roadway around the dam there has been considerable controversy. Garrett County representatives feel the road should be built by some agency other than the county, as the Savage River Dam regulates the flow of the Potomac River so that Allegany County benefits by flood control and alleviation of pollution.

At present it is undecided whether Allegany County, the State of Maryland, Garrett County, or the federal government should be responsible for the construction and upkeep of the road.

The town of Westernport receives its water supply from the reservoir and complaints have been filed that the supply is not pure and free of pollution.

The dam covers 450 acres with drainage area of 105 square miles. Several anti-pollution regulations are in effect. No bathing is permitted except by permission of the Maryland State Department of Health and the Westernport council. Fishing is permitted only in certain areas and the only motorboats allowed are used by the Upper Potomac River Commission patrols and the Corps of Army Engineers.

Army Engineer Attends

Picknicking is allowed only by permission of the Upper Potomac River Commission, the Department of State Forests and Parks, and the Maryland State Department of Health.

Attending yesterday's organizational meeting were Hitchins; G. Bates Chaires, district engineer representing Russell McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission; Joseph M. Kaylor, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks; William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners; Helbig, Michaels, members of the Upper Potomac River Commission, operators of the Savage River Dam; Edward D. E. Rollins, attorney general of Maryland; and I. Alvin Pasarew, director of the State Planning Commission.

Col. Byron Bird, member of the Corps of Army Engineers, also attended.

Mrs. Chappell Heads Allegany Food Association

Mrs. Philomena A. Chappel, cafeteria manager at Columbia Street School, is the new president of the Allegany County affiliate of the American School Food Service Association.

Other officers are Mrs. Lucy Klavuhn, cafeteria manager at West Side School, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Rizer, cafeteria manager at East Side School, secretary; Mrs. Karaha McIntyre, school lunch employe at Valley High School, Lonaconing, treasurer.

Approximately 110 were present and all joined the Maryland School Food Service Association of which William P. Cooper, director of the Allegany County school lunch program, is president.

Mrs. Jane S. Legge, cafeteria manager at Fort Hill High School, and Miss Lydia Laing, school lunch employe at the same school, were presented 15-year service pins received from the American School Food Service Association. These pins bore the motto "Finis Coronat Opus," the end crowns the work."

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of the school lunch program of the county, presented Mrs. Nola Smith, cafeteria manager at Flintstone School and retiring president of the association, the specially designed gavel to this group by the American School Food Service Association.

CD Authorities Pleased With Test Of Sirens

City Hall Receives Hundreds Of Calls

Generally good coverage was reported by Civil Defense authorities here last night following a test of each of the sirens which form Cumberland's disaster warning system.

The public response to the test, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city CD coordinator, indicates there may still be some "dead spots" which are not covered by the sirens.

Hundreds of calls were received at City Hall by Gibson and his daughter, Miss Ann Gibson, from citizens and Civil Defense workers, reporting on the coverage of the sirens.

Gibson said CD authorities were "well pleased" with the public response to the test.

The sirens, located at Fayette Street and Plum Alley, South End Fire Company, Fairmont Avenue and Gephart Drive, and Camden Avenue, were set off for one-minute blasts under the direction of William G. Barger, county CD director.

A complete test will be held later, Gibson said, after relays are installed so all of the sirens can be activated simultaneously from a central control point.

One CD warden reported from North Centre Street that traffic there stopped when the siren went off, and remained until the wailing stopped, in spite of instructions motorists might proceed since this was not an "alert" but only a test of equipment.

A number of calls were received at The News' switchboard inquiring about the siren test.

Many of those calling in reported varying results from weak signals to strong blasts.

Local Hunter, Lost Overnight, Returns Home

Nearly 100 Search For Ernest H. Hess

A local deer hunter, lost overnight in the woods of Green Ridge Mountain, was safely back home yesterday after approximately 50 to 100 men had joined in an extensive search for him.

State Police, forestry workers, hunters and volunteers fanned out over the area and made use of radios and a walkie-talkie in the search for Ernest H. Hess, 53, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad carpenter who resides at 223 Emily Street.

On Monday about 6:30 a. m. Hess and his 26-year-old son, Benjamin, of 425 Valley Street, drove to Railroad Hollow and went into the woods together.

They spotted a few doe during the day, and at about 3:30 p. m. Hess sent his son up to make a drive on a nearby ridge. Later the son apparently got lost and failed to return.

Son Gives Alarm

However, the younger Hess found his way to the parked truck and when he saw that his father was not there, went for help. He located the home of Jess Whorton, Mertens Avenue, and then got to a telephone at the home of Mrs. Edna Crocks, from where they notified State Police about 7:30 p. m.

As it grew dark, Hess said, he got bewildered and went in the opposite direction of the parked truck. He decided to build a fire to keep warm. During the evening Hess could hear the shots of the searching party but they apparently could not hear him as he sat by the fire and fired his gun in answer.

State Trooper John F. Browning went to the area and along the way met Brook Bodkin, Ralph Witt, George Brown, Thomas Dixon, William Slider and Jack Bowman of the Forestry Department.

Later they joined the younger Hess at the parked truck and the search got underway as other hunters joined in. For two or three hours the foresters, with vehicles equipped with radios, and the State Police cruiser drove along Mertens Avenue, Green Ridge Road and Jacobs Road in an effort to locate Hess.

Slept Four Hours

Witt, Brown, Bowman and the younger Hess took a walkie-talkie and flashlights and went into the woods to comb the area from Mertens Avenue to Maple Run Ridge on Jacobs Road for a distance of about three miles.

When they could not locate the hunter they returned and decided to take up the search early yesterday morning.

Hess said he was dressed warmly and decided to take a little rest. During the night he managed to get about four hours sleep and after awakening at about 5:45 a. m. decided to look for a road out of the woods.

Hess later walked out onto a back road and followed it. Another hunter saw him and gave him directions back to a main road.

The information was included in a letter to Mayor Roy W. Eves from Col. Ray Adams, district engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Col. Adams said plans for the flood wall on the West Side of Cumberland are about 95 per cent complete and that the present schedule calls for construction to begin about June 1, 1954.

Plans for earth levees in Cumberland, between the mouth of Wills Creek and the Kelly Boulevard, and on the opposite bank of the Potomac River in Ridgeley are about 65 per cent complete, Col. Adams said, and construction on this is slated to begin about November 1, 1954.

Ahead Of Schedule

Two other phases of the flood job are now in progress and both are ahead of schedule. The first phase of the Wills Creek channel improvement project is about 86 per cent complete, and the Industrial Dam contract is about 63 per cent complete.

Col. Adams warned, however, that the possibility that there will not be enough funds to meet the city's obligations poses a problem in assuring Congress, while asking for yearly construction appropriations, that local interests are willing and able to meet all their commitments.

He pointed out that once work is stopped on a civil works project, it is next to impossible to get the job under way again under the present economy requirements on civil works.

The city was urged to advise the Corps of Engineers as soon as possible that the necessary funds will be provided.

$2,500,000 Provided

Army Engineers contend that the $2,500,000 estimate of local costs, provided by $1,500,000 of city and $1,000,000 of county bond issues, is substantially correct and that the sum would have been sufficient had spending been limited to items in the original plan.

Col. Adams cited as an example that the Corps of Engineers returned $122,692 to the city from funds set aside for local costs of the first two phases, pressure conduits and storm sewers.

The city, however, has made a number of changes, including the widening of Valley Street, and is planning to rebuild bridges along Wills Creek, instead of merely replacing the part of the bridge which spans the creek, as was called for in the original plans.

List City Costs

Current estimates of the cost to the city for the rest of the Flood Protection project indicate that $1,325,000 will be needed. That is just about $325,000 more than is left of the $2,500,000 bond issues.

The estimates call for $370,000 as advances to the Corps of Engineers for construction chargeable to the city; $625,000 to acquire land needed in Ridgeley, the West Side and for the rest of the Wills Creek

County Donors Give 240 Pints

The regional Bloodmobile unit from the Red Cross headquarters in Johnstown, Pa. yesterday collected 107 pints of blood at the American Legion Home in Frostburg on the second day of the county visit.

With the 133 pints contributed in Cumberland Monday, the total donations for the county amounted to 240 pints, 60 pints short of the 300-pint quota for December.

Red Cross officials said the reason for not meeting the blood goal this month was that many persons did not keep their appointments during the two days.

At Frostburg, 130 donors were scheduled, but many did not show up to give blood. Added to the number of rejections yesterday, only the 54 "walk-ins" saved the day and put contributions over the 100 mark.

Frostburg workers reported that 11 new volunteers, who had never given blood before, donated a pint each yesterday.

Newly-elected officers are Joseph Connelly, vice president; Richard Burkey, assistant chief; Ralph Martin, chaplain, and Joseph McClellan, sergeant-at-arms.
